71 DEAD AS LIGHTNING STRIKES MANY STATES

Heavy rains triggered flash floods in parts of Himachal Pradesh and the Jammu region, disrupting normal life on Monday even as the deaths due to lightning strikes in several states climbed to 71, including 42 in Uttar Pradesh. The India Meteorological Department has issued an orange alert for Rajasthan and Jammu and Kashmir, and yellow alert for Himachal Pradesh, Uttarakhand and Uttar Pradesh for Tuesday with a warning of heavy rains | P9

Retail inflation remains high at 6.26% in June

Stays past RBI's tolerance level for 2nd straight month, driven by food, fuel prices

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

HIGH retail prices continue to wreak havoc on India's economy as inflation based on the Consumer Price Index (CPI) was a high 6.26% in June, according to government data released on Monday.

With retail inflation remaining above the RBI's tolerance limit of 6%, experts say it will force the central bank to revise its inflation forecast in the next monetary policy meet scheduled between August 4 and 6. However, they don't expect the RBI to change the key policy rates.

In the last monetary policy review, RBI had revised inflation forecasts for FY22 to 5.1%. But, the general consensus among economists is that inflation may average above that level in FY22.

"Following today's CPI inflation print, we expect the inflation forecasts to be revised upwards in the next MPC review, amid a status quo in the rates and stance, albeit with an underlying tone of uneasiness in the commentary," said Adit Nayar, Chief Economist, ICRA.

While technically, retail inflation softened to 6.26% from 6.3% in May, food inflation zoomed to 5.15% from 5.01%. In the food basket, egg prices rose 19.4% while those of oils and fats increased 35% , data showed. Fruit prices also saw a 12% jump, while inflation for the 'fuel and light' sub-group rose 12.7% in June compared to 11.6% in May. Inflation in transport and communication rose 11.6% while health costs continued to grow, registering an 8% inflation.

Meanwhile, factory output as measured by the Index of Industrial Production (IIP) witnessed a 29.3% growth in May, mainly on account of low base. IIP had contracted 33.4% in May 2020.

Economists expect the IIP growth to be between 15% and 20% for the next month.

Factory output is the closest approximation for measuring the economic activity of the country's business landscape.

Manufacturing rebounds

Manufacturing, which constitutes 77.63% of the IIP, grew 34.5% in May though it shrank 16.4% compared with the pre-Covid period (May 2019). Industrial production had plunged 18.7% in March last year following the Covid outbreak

Cabinet clears LIC IPO, issue by March 2022

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Cabinet Committee on Economic Affairs (CCEA) has given its in-principle approval for the listing of the Life Insurance Corporation's shares on the stock exchanges, an official in the Department of Financial Services, Ministry of Finance, told The New Indian Express.

The initial public offering (IPO) of the state-owned life insurer is part of the government's efforts to raise ₹1.75 lakh crore through disinvestment in the current financial year. Sources said all efforts are being made to ensure the IPO is done within the current financial year, which ends in March 2022.

The government, which holds 100% equity holding in LIC, is planning to sell a portion of its stake in the process.

State can hold SSLC exam: HC

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE State Government can go ahead with the SSLC examination as scheduled on July 19 and 22 for the academic year 2020-21 as the Karnataka High Court on Monday declined to entertain a public interest litigation questioning the State Government's decision to conduct the exams.

A division bench of Justices BV Nagarathna and Hanchate Sanjeev Kumar dismissed the PIL filed by SV Singregowda, Managing Trustee of Gnana Mandira Education Trust. P2

NEET-undergrad exam put off to September 12

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

AS reported exclusively in these columns on July 10, The National Eligibility cum Entrance Test 2021 (NEET) for undergraduate medical courses has been put off by over a month. It will now be held on September 12 instead of August 1 across the country.

"The NEET (UG) 2021 will be held on 12th September 2021 across the country following COVID-19 protocols. The application process will begin from 5 pm tomorrow through the NTA website(s)," informed new Union Education Minister Dharmendra Pradhan on Monday.

In order to ensure social distancing norms, the number of cities where the examination will be conducted has been increased from 155 to 198. The number of examination centres, too, will go up, though the new figure is yet to be determined. Last year's NEET exam was held in 3,862 centres. To ensure adherence to Covid-19 protocols, face mask will be provided to all candidates at each centre. P9

Colleges to open after students, staff jabbed

No discussion yet on starting offline classes at government level

Deputy Chief Minister and Higher Education Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayan holds a meeting with officials on Monday | EXPRESS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Hubballi

A decision on reopening of colleges in the State will be taken only after vaccinating all the stakeholders, including students, said Deputy Chief Minister and Higher Education Minister Dr CN Ashwath Narayan, here on Monday.

Still, no discussion is being held at the government level to start offline classes for college students, but the higher education department is taking measures to ensure reopening of colleges soon, including vaccinating teaching and non-teaching staff and students, he added.

Though he did not give a time-frame to restart colleges offline, he said. "Of course, there are several challenges to open colleges. But how long can colleges continue with online classes? Life should continue with caution. The only remedy to get rid of the pandemic is vaccination and the government is taking it up on a massive scale."

The government is prepared to face a possible Covid third wave by creating health infrastructure. Over 6,000 beds across the State are reserved for Covid patients and necessary medical, nursing and paramedical staff are being recruited, he said.

During a discussion on the National Education Policy (NEP) at Karnatak University, Dharwad, he said private institutions can start implementing NEP if they are willing and are prepared with necessary technology and infrastructure.

> The only remedy to get rid of the pandemic is vaccination and the government is taking it up on a massive scale
>
> Dr CN Ashwath Narayan, Higher Education Minister

The State Government aims to implement NEP by 2030 and government institutions under the Department of Higher Education will do it from the current academic year by making use of the learning management system (LMS) and Unified University College Management System (UUCMS), he said.

Private colleges that have good infrastructure should embrace NEP from this year itself. Other institutions too should move towards implementing it gradually. NEP aspires to provide global exposure to students even as it tries to make them aware of the roots of Indian tradition, he said.

No Net in rural areas, minister speaks to Chief Secy

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

MINISTER for Primary and Secondary Education Suresh Kumar held discussions with Chief Secretary P Ravi Kumar on Monday to address internet and network issues faced by students in rural areas to make it easier for them to attend online classes.

Rural students are going up the hill, sitting on river banks and climbing trees to get the internet connection to attend classes. At a recent interaction, a student told the minister that though the government has given them gadgets, there is no network to use them.

Ravi Kumar is said to have briefed Suresh Kumar about a meeting between Additional Chief Secretary EV Ramana Reddy and internet service providers following instructions from Deputy Chief Minister and Higher Education Minister Dr CN Ashwath Narayan.

Ravi Kumar told the minister that the service providers said the network connectivity would be strengthened in rural areas.

Students, especially in Malnad areas, have not been able to access the internet and even Doordarshan's Chandana channel, where classes are being aired, because of the monsoon, said Suresh Kumar. "We will ensure learning continuity for rural students by strengthening mobile networks in their areas for good quality education," he said.

Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa too instructed the chief secretary to address the issue.

Meanwhile, facilities will be created at several places in rural areas, including at gram panchayat libraries, for students to access internet and television, Minister for Primary and Secondary Education Suresh Kumar said.

He discussed the possibility with Chief Minister's advisor Prashant Prakash and State's Education Advisor Prof Doreswamy on Monday.

He said that the discussion is on to equip 5,766 gram panchayat libraries with internet and TV facilities to help students who don't have access to online classes.

He said that the Rural Development and Panchayat Raj Department has also come forward to help these students.

Parents demand clarity in fee breakup, claim school blocked access to e-class

SCHOOL ASKED TO PAY FEES, SAYS RTE STUDENT'S PARENT

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA
@Bengaluru

The parent of an RTE student in Jain School claimed that her ward has been denied access to online classes for more than a year now. She told TNIE that it was because she had not paid fees since last year. "Each year, we had to pay Rs 38,000 fees but due to the pandemic, this year, the fee was reduced to Rs 13,000," she added, while requesting anonymity. However, RTE seats are supposed to be free of cost. An activist said that the school has made violations in the past too and charged tuition fees. The student's father works as a driver at a private firm and the mother as a home maker. She could not pay fees for the previous year and while visiting the school regarding the severed access to online classes, was asked to make the fee payment first, she said. This is the case with both their daughters who study in two different schools. "Our children are good in studies, but for one year, both haven't studied much. They looked at other students' notes and try to learn," she said. However, the school's director Archana, while talking to TNIE, denied claims of the school charging tuition fees from RTE students. "Also, no parent's registered ID has been blocked to access Zoom classes," she added. Archana said, "Three years ago, parents were allowed to enrol their children for additional activities where teachers were outsourced, for which one had to pay fees."

Parents gather outside Jain Heritage School in Bengaluru on Monday | EXPRESS

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA @Bengaluru

PARENTS of students from Jain Heritage School in Hebbal protested outside the school on Monday, demanding to know why access to online classes was blocked. Many haven't paid fees, waiting for a transparency in the fee structure and the breakup of the components, that they had demanded for earlier.

"We are ready to make the payment. All we need is clarity about the fees," said Aparna, president of the parents association. The management assured access to classes but went back on their word after the local education officer left the scene, parents told TNIE.

"Students of the same class have different fee structures. We were also told that the three installments were all tuition fees and had to be paid," she added.

She said that talks were going on from January about school fees and parents were surprised that access to online classes were severed suddenly. To know the reason, parents went to school, but even when three parents approached the school, the gates were closed and parents were left outside, she said.

However, Director of the school, Archana told TNIE that students had access to Zoom classes and that the school fees was declared on the website. "The fee breakup was sent to parents individually. We were responding to queries by e-mail. Parents have been asked to send a confirmation email about continuing in the school," she added.

Mr Santosh Mookanagoudar, Management Representative of Jain Heritage School, "As a school, we are committed to providing maximum support to our parents during these tough times and in the last one year, we have extended financial help to a large section of them. The school is self-financing its operations presently and has to manage its own expenses in addition to salary costs. Our team has been working hard to try and resolve every query or complaint on a one-on-one basis. We only request them to put up their individual cases so that it can be addressed properly."

Customs seize 14 iPhones, crude gold at KIA

Bengaluru: The air intelligence unit of Customs at Bengaluru airport has booked two passengers for attempting to conceal gold chains by coating them in other metal and bringing in iPhones and imported cigarettes in bulk. The value of the seized items is over Rs 56 lakh. A total of 14 iPhone 12 pro Max 256 GB, 140 cases of Esse Gold cigarettes, and other brands were seized. While the male passenger had a partially rhodium coated gold chain and one fully rhodium coated finger ring, the female passenger was wearing four crude gold bangles and four crude gold chains, which were recovered from the hand baggage. ENS

'No student will be forced to appear for SSLC exam'

THE HC observing that the petition lacks merit and the government's decision is not arbitrary. Recollecting that the court did not interfere with the government's decision to hold the SSLC exam in June 2020 during the first Covid wave, the court said that the State Government has taken care to conduct the examination by issuing a standard operating procedure that has to be complied with by all students, teachers and other stakeholders. Also, the petitioner has not been able to show how the government's decision is arbitrary and interferes with the rights of students and other stakeholders, the court added.

The petitioner alleged that nine lakh students, including repeaters, will be exposed to Covid as majority of students and teachers are not vaccinated. Class 10 exams were cancelled by CBSE and ICSE boards and other states, and Karnataka too should postpone it, he argued. The State would be responsible if something happens to students, he argued, expressing apprehensions over chances of Covid third wave affecting children from 1 to 15 years.

The court observed that no student will be forced, either by the State or parents, to appear for the exam. The State Government has considered the opinion of the Technical Expert Committee on Covid before taking a collective decision to hold the exam in a revised format (objective type questions to be answered in 3 hours a day) on July 19 and 22, instead of three hours on each day for six days. The exam is being conducted in the interest of the academic career of students. This is the best time to hold the exam as the Covid-positivity rate has dropped to 1.48 per cent. There is no arbitrariness in the government's decision, the court observed.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

13th July: Many people don't realise it, but it's possible to see planets during the day. A few years ago, an amateur astronomer I know was able to observe both Venus and Jupiter in broad daylight. You can do it too, although it's easier at night. You just need to know where to look, a good pair of binoculars - and a steady eye.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
You are beginning to doubt whether a number of financial commitments are really worth the bother. In any case you'll have to settle bills for purchases or other obligations which are due to work out more costly than you feared. Remember that partners have the advantage, so don't push issues you can't win.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
The planets maintain their tense alignment today with an interesting aspect from Neptune to the Sun adding to the sense of confusion. Above all you should observe the old rule that the more logical your approach, the happier will be the outcome.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Venus' helpful presence is boosting your morale, and whatever else happens today, it will be your sense of status and responsibility that is crucial to your well-being and happiness. A colleague at work may seem determined to disagree.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
These are uncertain times and you're not the only person to have financial cares, so stop being so self-indulgent. How about relaxing for a change and splashing out some of your hard-earned cash on a treat for you and your friends? Work still seems to be going slowly, so take it easy if you can.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Take domestic matters in hand and pay close attention to any and all possible causes of family friction. Some of the decisions that need to be taken may seem hard now but will be worthwhile in the long run. Your costs still appear to be rising, so keep an eye on unnecessary expenditure.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
It looks very much as if someone is trying to get the better of you, possibly without your being fully aware of what they're up to. In any event, your behaviour in the past will assure friends that you are now in the right. Family members may be unconvinced, though.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
You may as well prepare yourself for what could be a hectic and trying day, but there's no reason at all why you shouldn't come through with flying colours, having gained enormously in self-respect and confidence. Your optimism shines through in the end.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
With Mercury still pestering the Sun, it's doubtful whether you'll be able to give a straight answer to a straight question, but it doesn't really matter as long as you know what you mean and other people aren't too confused. There is so much still to be said in a treasured relationship, but you may not be able to say it yet.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
At all costs don't give other people the impression that you've been using them for your own ends, even if there has been a hint of exploitation in your relationships lately. There should be more room for give and take. In fact, the more you give, the more you'll receive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Venus continues to confer its blessings on your finances, raising prospects for renewed prosperity. Hopefully the emotional traumas of the past will now be no more than distant memories. Remember the importance of discretion in relation to current relationships - and don't open your mouth when you shouldn't!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Your ruling planets, Saturn and Uranus, are currently making a rather powerful aspect to each other, and you may be under considerable pressure. But every cloud has a silver lining and even apparently major crises will bring welcome benefits in your direction.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
The planetary position is generally favourable, especially now that Venus and Jupiter are poised to help you on your way, and any difficulties you are currently facing are very much the result of your own bad management. So the solutions lie with you more than with the stars.

India likely to add 12.6L Covid cases, state about 60K by Aug 10

Death rate to fall, Maharashtra will see high toll, Karnataka at second spot

RANJANI MADHAVAN @ Bengaluru

INDIA'S Covid-19 count is expected to reach 32.1 million (321 lakh) cases, including an addition of 1.26 million (12.6 lakh) new cases by August 10. The country's death toll is likely to touch 4.40 lakh. Karnataka, on its part, is likely to reach a Covid tally of 29.35 lakh cases, with the death toll touching 37,275 fatalities by August 10. These were the figures projected by Jeevan Raksha, an initiative of Proxima Consulting.

Mysore Sanjeev, convener of Jeevan Raksha, said the good work done so far by India and-Karnataka alike, especially improved containment management, needs to continue.

"It is imperative that each district administration ensures that the 7-Day Moving Growth Rate (MGR) of Covid is less than 2 per cent. Last week, 14 districts in Karnataka had a 7-Day MGR of less than 1 per cent, 15 districts had MGR of 1-2%. Only Kodagu has a marginally higher MGR of 3%, which is likely to reduce in the coming week. If all districts ensure a 7-Day MGR of less than 2% until 80% of the state population is fully vaccinated, Karnataka can undoubtedly avoid the third wave," Sanjeev opined.

A health worker collects swab samples of a woman in Bengaluru on Monday | SHRIRAM BN

He advised that micro containment zones, making RT-PCR testing available in villages, and testing the right kind of people, instead of random Rapid Antigen Tests, should be followed. The current testing figures should be maintained but there needs to be a rationale behind who is being tested and why so many people are being tested.

As per the projection, Maharashtra will touch a tally of 63.65 lakh by August 10, followed by Kerala with 35.3 lakh patients. Third in line is Karnataka, followed by Tamil Nadu with 26 lakh cases.

Meanwhile, with respect to fatalities, Maharashtra's death toll is expected to touch 1,43,425, followed by Karnataka with 37,275, Tamil Nadu with 34,700 and Kerala with 18,775.

A NEW SCARE

Bone death threat looms for recovered Covid patients

IFFATH FATHIMA @ Bengaluru

After black fungus, Covid-recovered patients may face the threat of suffering from avascular necrosis (AVN) or bone death, which is a painful condition affecting the hip joint and thigh bones, doctors warned. The condition could set in because of higher and longer dosage of steroids to treat Covid patients and also due to patients developing blood clots.

Dr Ravichandra Kelkar, Consultant - Orthopaedics, Columbia Asia Hospital, Hebbal (a unit of Manipal Hospitals), said they have seen a few cases of AVN of the femoral head (hip bone) among post-Covid patients. "Covid patients experience blood clotting, which may lead to venous thromboembolism reducing blood supply to the femoral head and resulting in vascular necrosis of the femoral head. This can eventually result in severe arthritis and painful hip movement."

Dr Thirumalesh K Reddy, Senior and Lead Consultant - Joint Replacement and Arthroscopic Surgery, Aster CMI Hospital, explained, "AVN is associated with the use of steroids, which are a double-edged sword."

The doctors say that AVN generally sets in 3-6 months after recovery. "There could be a surge in AVN cases in the next six months among Covid-recovered patients," warned Dr Anand Galagali, Senior Consultant, Orthopedics, Manipal Hospitals, Malleswaram.

Zika the new bug, avoid pregnancy for now

IFFATH FATHIMA @ Bengaluru

WITH the detection of 14 positive cases of the Zika virus in Kerala, and Karnataka on high alert, health professionals point out that pregnant women should not travel to the affected state or come in contact with people travelling from there. Those who have recently come from Kerala should also be cautious about getting pregnant, and it's best avoided for at least two months, they added.

Zika virus is caused by the bite of the Aedes aegypti and Aedes albopiticus mosquitoes, and primarily impacts pregnant women, causing neurological disorders in the foetus.

Dr Bharati Kamoji, Senior Consultant - Obstetrics & Gynaecology, Aster CMI Hospital, stated that as the Zika virus can cause severe birth defects, it is recommended that pregnant women should not travel to areas which report Zika outbreak.

"As no vaccine has been developed for the Zika virus, it is advisable that couples use precautions or avoid sex with someone who has recently travelled to a risk area. Men who have been infected with the virus, and even those with a travel history to affected areas should wait for three months, and women should wait for two months after their journey or falling ill, before attempting to get pregnant," said Dr Kamoji.

Dr Gayathri D Kamath, Senior Consultant - Obstetrics & Gynaecology, Fortis Hospitals, said, "Anyone who has travelled back from Kerala now should be watchful of getting pregnant. As the mosquitoes bite during the day, it's advisable to keep the entire body covered."

Dr Sunil Eshwar, Lead Consultant - Obstetrics and Gynaecology, Aster RV Hospital, said EPA-registered insect repellents are proven to be safe and effective, even for pregnant and breastfeeding women.

Preventive measures should be followed at home, said Dr Vidhyashree, Consultant OBG, KMC Hospital, Mangaluru. "Stay in places with air-conditioning or with screens on doors and windows. Make sure your clothes cover and protect your skin. Treat clothes, shoes and other gear with a bug spray called permethrin. Don't spray permethrin on your skin. Remove still water inside and outside your home and workplace. Empty water from flowerpots, buckets, pet water bowls and children's pools, as mosquitoes can lay eggs in very small amounts of water."

COVID BYTES

New cases drop to low of 319 in Bengaluru

Bengaluru: With an addition of 319 new cases on Monday, Bengaluru witnessed the lowest addition to its daily Covid tally, which took the tally to 12,19,697. Karnataka, as a whole, too saw its least addition of new cases since March 18, with 1,386 patients taking the state tally up to 28,72,684.Bengaluru's recovery rate increased from 97.60 per cent to 97.64 per cent, while its mortality rate stayed the same at 1.29 per cent, with 9 deaths taking the city's toll to 15,745. Active cases in the capital witnessed a 3.52 per cent decrease, reducing the load from 13,459 to 12,985. The state's positivity rate decreased from 7.99 per cent to 7.96 per cent. ENS

K'taka confident of going ahead with project; CM likely to take it up with Jal Shakti Minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

HOME, Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Monday said the Mekedatu balancing reservoir is a drinking water project and the state will go ahead with it as planned.

He was responding to a question regarding an all-party meeting in Tamil Nadu passing a resolution opposing the project and urging the Centre not to accord clearances for it. It is a project to utilise the surplus water for providing drinking water and generate energy, and a detailed project report has been submitted to Central Water Commission, he said.

"We have the right to implement the project and we 100 per cent confident of implementing it. The Centre has to consider the state's request (to accord clearances). We will make all efforts to get the required clearances to take up the project," he said and added that Tamil Nadu must understand that the project will help share water during distress years.

The issue is likely to come up for discussion during Jal Shakti Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat's visit to Bengaluru on Tuesday. Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa is holding a meeting with Shekhawat before they review the implementation of Jal Jeevan Mission.

The Opposition Congress accused Tamil Nadu of creating a controversy. "Let the State Government get all approvals and start the work immediately. We will stand with the government," said Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) president D K Shivakumar.

The Congress further leader said all political parties of Tamil Nadu have a common agenda of opposing the Mekedatu project, and added that TN has no say in it.

"The Mekedatu project is in my Assembly constituency Kanakapura. Water will be used for Bengaluru and for electricity generation," said Shivakumar, who had served as Water Resources Minister.

"The BJP is in power in the state and at the Centre. They must get all approvals," Shivakumar said and added that they have information that the central environment board has issued clearance for the project.

TN all-party delegation to visit Delhi soon

Chennai: The representatives of legislature parties in the Tamil Nadu Assembly on Monday spoke in unison on preventing Karnataka's efforts to build a new dam across the Cauvery river at Mekedatu. With a view to convey to the Union Government about Tamil Nadu's overall opposition to the project, an all-party delegation would visit New Delhi soon. The delegation is likely to be headed by Chief Minister M K Stalin or Water Resources Minister Durai Murugan. It will be clear within a day or two, along with the list of leaders of all parties to be part of the delegation. The legislature parties meeting, chaired by Chief Minister M K Stalin, condemned the Karnataka government's continued efforts to construct a new dam across the Cauvery at Mekedatu and urged the Union Government not to permit Karnataka to go ahead with the project.

'Population Control Bill a policy matter'

Bengaluru: Home, Law Parliamentary Affairs Minister Basavaraj Bommai said the Population Control Bill is a policy matter . Responding to a question if Karnataka has any plans to bring in a Bill on the lines of Uttar Pradesh, Bommai said, "All these are policy matters. It has to be discussed, deliberated and only then can a decision be taken. Population control has been there for a long time. Now, this is basically based on the incentives given by the government. Family planning is different. It has to be deliberated and we will take a call," he said.

CM: Acquire land for Anubhava Mantapa through mutual consent

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister B S Yediyurappa on Monday directed the officials to acquire land for the Rs 500 crore Anubhava Mantapa project in Basavakalyan through mutual consent after negotiating the compensation for land.

The State Government has earmarked Rs 500 crore for the project and Rs 200 crore has been allocated in the current financial year for the Anubhava Mantapa which will come up on 101 acres. While philanthropists have donated 11.25 acres, the government needs to acquire 69 acres from farmers. The land acquisition process has come to a halt as farmers are demanding higher prices for their land, said a statement from the Chief Minister's Office.

During the Basavakalyan Development Board meeting, where an action plan for 2021-22 was approved, the Chief Minister directed officials to acquire land through mutual consent and finalise the action plan. The officials have also been directed to finalise the Detailed Project Report (DPR). Currently, soil testing is being done at the project site.

The CM also chaired a meeting of the Sangolli Rayanna Area Development Authority and approved its action plan for the fiscal, for which Rs 62 crore has been allocated in the budget. The meeting also approved clearance of pending bills to the tune of Rs 21 crore. The construction of a military school at Sangolli, the birthplace of Rayanna has been completed and the CM directed the Authority to sign the MoU with the Defence Ministry for starting of academic activities, recruitment of teachers and other staff, the Chief Minister's Office statement said.

The Chief Minister, who also chaired the Kaginele Development Authority meeting, approved expenditure of Rs 14 crore towards various works undertaken by the authority.

Huge crowds flout Covid-19 norms as Siddu visits Badami

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bagalkot

COVID-19 norms went for a toss as a large number of people gathered to welcome former chief minister Siddaramaiah at his constituency Badami on Monday. While the police struggled to prevent people from crowding, it was found that most of them were not wearing marks and were flouting social-distancing norms.

Siddaramaiah attended a meeting of the Karnataka Development Programme (KDP) and also took part in various events in Badami on the first day of his two-day visit.

Speaking to reporters, Siddaramaiah said that he will contest the next Assembly polls too from Badami. "There is a demand from the residents of Badami that I contest the next elections from there. People from other districts too have invited me to contest a seat in their respective districts. I am representing Badami and will contest from the same segment in the next Assembly polls," he reiterated.

Last week, supporters of the Congress leader from Badami visited him at his Bengaluru residence and urged him to contest from their segment in the next polls.

Lashing out at the State Government, Siddaramaiah said, "The government is not working efficiently. Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa is trying hard to save his chair while his son is busy making money. Only two things are happening in the state and I have raised these issues in the Assembly too." "For every transfer of officials, a commission is sought in this government. There is also a gang of sub-inspectors which will be transferred to their place of choice if they give money," he thundered.

Criticising the government for failing to stop illegal mining, Siddaramaiah said the government has failed to learn a lesson even after blasts in quarries in Shivamogga and Chikkaballapur. "When allegations are being made by an MP, the government should consider it seriously. It is not just in Mandya, but across the state," he said when asked about allegations of illegal mining in the vicinity of the KRS reservoir by Mandya MP Sumalatha.

Biggies gird up for urban local body polls

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

WHILE there has been no official announcement on the Zilla and Taluk Panchayat polls, or even the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike council polls, the major parties are leaving nothing to chance and have begun preparations in earnest.

Former CM and JDS leader H D Kumaraswamy told TNIE, "Our leaders will start meetings over 10 days from July 15 in the districts and taluks. We are strong in many Assembly segments in the southern parts of the state and in some Assembly segments in places like Raichur, parts of Vijayapura and Bidar in the north." As far as the BBMP polls are concerned, the party plans to take up ward-wise preparation in 14 Assembly segments in the city during the first round of meetings and decide on the remaining 14 constituencies in a second round of meetings. Party state president H K Kumaraswamy told TNIE, "We will decide on the ZP, TP and BBMP elections from July 15 onwards."

KPCC president D K Shivakumar did not reveal much. "We are working on it," was all he said. However, KPCC working president Saleem Ahmed said, "We are prepared for the ZP, TP and BBMP polls whenever the authorities decide to hold them. The state and city units of the Congress consisting of Raj Kumar, Shekar and Krishnappa and the rest of the team are expected to hold meetings to discuss details of the BBMP polls in the coming days."

Congress leaders, during party meetings, have accused the BJP of being hesitant to hold elections and have said that the government was trying to delay the polls.

The ruling BJP has held one preliminary meeting on the ZP, TP and the BBMP elections. The party will hold more comprehensive meetings after July 15, said party state general secretary and MLC Ravikumar. Party state president Nalin Kumar Kateel and city unit leaders including ministers R Ashoka, Dr C N Ashwathnarayana and office-bearer H S Gopinath Reddy, Subanna and others are expected to be involved in the discussions on BBMP polls.

While all the parties face the challenge of identifying winnable candidates, the JDS leaders said they have identified 75 candidates so far. The Congress and BJP too will be looking to get their candidate lists ready soon and can get a head start.

Will act tough against illegal mining, says Nirani after meeting Sumalatha

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

Mines and Geology Minister Murugesh Nirani on Monday said strict action will be taken against those, including government officials, indulging in illegal mining activities.

On Monday, Mandya MP Sumalatha met Nirani and urged him to immediately stop "illegal mining" in the vicinity of the Krishnaraja Sagar (KRS) reservoir.

Later, Nirani told reporters that he will visit the mining areas in Mandya this week along with the MP, MLAs, MLCs and people's representatives of the region, for an inspection.

Nirani said mining activities are banned in a 15-km radius of the KRS dam and officials were instructed to impose fines and stop mining activities after violations by some companies came to light. The minister said that after the MP complained about the threat to the dam, a team of officials were sent for inspection. The officials conducted a joint survey and submitted a report denying illegal stone mining activities in the last three months, he said.

Nirani said the government has decided to conduct trial blasts around the KRS reservoir through Pune-based Central Water and Power Research Station CSIR-CIMFR to study the impact and determine the permissible magnitude of explosions.

He further said that he had instructed the officials to conduct trial blasts and submit a report which was delayed due to the Covid-19 pandemic.

Mining ban around KRS being discussed: Minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mysuru

MANDYA district in-charge minister K C Narayana Gowda on Monday said that the State Government is contemplating a complete ban on mining activities in and around the KRS dam across the Cauvery river.

Presiding over a review meeting of the Mines and Geology Department here, Gowda said that the safety of the KRS dam and mining activities in its vicinity were being discussed at the highest level and there are also apprehensions that blasts during quarrying will pose a threat to the dam.

He said that a proposal to ban mining in Baby Betta, located in the vicinity of the KRS, has been submitted to the government and it will be discussed with Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa. Mining has been banned around several reservoirs and the government was contemplating the same in the case of KRS reservoir in Mandya district. We are also considering to allot alternative quarry to those carrying out mining in Baby Betta that should be converted into a tourist spot," he said.

Gowda also pulled up officials for failing to visit the mining areas and for not having any information on the quantity of stone excavated. He alleged that a few officials were hand in the glow with the corrupt and their negligence has given scope for rampant mining in the region. "When people in the vicinity can feel the impact of the blasts, it is not felt by the officials concerned. I want the Mines and Geology Department officials to visit mining sites and collect royalty," he rued.

Gowda suggested that the officials start a helpline for people to alert them on illegal mining.

Soon, Kannada classes at masjids, churches to promote language

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

Don't be surprised if you get to hear more of Kannada in places like mosques, madrasas and churches in the coming days. To promote Kannada, the Kannada Development Authority is planning to start classes at such places as part of the 'Kannada Kayaka Varsha' being observed by the State Government this year to promote the use of the language in government and public places.

Kannada Development Authority chairman T S Nagabharana said they have already held a preliminary meeting with all the stakeholders. "We have called for another round of meeting where we will discuss the format and the schedule," he said.

The KDA is enlisting the support of noted writer Abdul Rehman Pasha to help in conducting Kannada classes in mosques and madrasas. Nagabharana said he is also writing to the Archbishop of Bengaluru to conduct prayers in Kannada, similar to what is done in Kerala and Tamil Nadu where the regional language is used to conduct mass prayers. "This is not about religion. It's about respecting the local language. We are not stressing that people should become experts in Kannada. One has to learn and use the local language," he said, adding plans are also on to conduct Kannada classes in churches. The KDA had earlier proposed to introduce a Kannada Language Skill Test similar to TOEFL. The proposal is still before the government. "We are seeking dates to conduct exams online as a pilot initiative. TOEFL is a standardised test to gauge the English language skill of non-native speakers wishing to enroll in English-speaking universities. A similar initiative has been proposed for non-Kannada speakers who wish to study and work in Karnataka. Once we get the government's nod, Kannada classes at various places, including places of worship, will play an important role," he said.

The State Government's language policy makes it mandatory to use Kannada in official communication. Also, the Dr Sarojini Mahishi Commission had recommended reservation for Kannadigas in jobs in the private sector in Karnataka. Since the state cannot make it mandatory, it amended the Karnataka Industrial Employment Rules, 1961, a few months ago stressing that priority should be given to Kannadigas in private sector jobs.

B'luru DRI cracks illegal gold imports by Mumbai company

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

THE Directorate of Revenue Intelligence (DRI), Bengaluru has unearthed a huge tax evasion racket of around Rs 338 crore by a Mumbai-based firm.

"The accused firm diverted around 2,200 kg of gold worth over Rs 1,000 crore into the local market over the last three years, making fraudulent use of the Advance Authorisation (AA) scheme," said an official source. DRI arrested two accused on July 10 under The Customs Act. They have been remanded to judicial custody till July 21.

According to DRI, the Mumbai firm was assisted by its "connected firm in Gandhinagar in Gujarat, which made fraudulent use of duty concessions available under the ASEAN India Free Trade Agreement (AIFTA) to import gold potassium cyanide (GPC). The Mumbai-based firm claimed it to be a byproduct of gold that they imported under the AA scheme".

The AA scheme under the Foreign Trade Policy (FTP), 2015-2020, permits duty exemption to a manufacturer exporter or merchant exporter, who is tied to a supporting manufacturer, to import duty-free goods as inputs to be incorporated into export products. "The Mumbai-based exporter never manufactured any export products from the duty-free gold that he imported using the AA scheme. Instead, he diverted the duty-free gold to the domestic market by melting and recasting it, making a huge profit. He violated the actual user condition under the AA scheme. The Gandhinagar firm has nothing to do with gold potassium cyanide as it is into solar energy solutions," said the officer.

The tax evasion came to light after DRI, on credible intelligence developed by its Bengaluru unit, intercepted and seized a consignment of 100 kg of gold potassium cyanide (GPC) with a declared value of Rs 32 crore at the Air Cargo Complex, Mumbai on July 9. GPC contains 68.1 per cent gold and is used to electroplate metals. "The Mumbai firm was exporting the seized consignment to a connected firm in Dubai," the officer added.

Explaining the modus operandi, the officer said that over the last three years, to fulfil their export obligations under the AA scheme, the accused used to procure GPC from the Gandhinagar firm, which fraudulently imported it from Indonesia under AIFTA.

THE Jnana Bharathi police have cracked the murder of a 26-year-old home alone woman and arrested her neighbour and the latter's paramour. The accused confessed to murdering the victim to steal her jewellery and repay their debts.

Ranjitha, a resident of Jnanajyothi Nagar, was found murdered at her house on Saturday evening. Police said the accused - Indiramma (40) and her paramour Rajashekhar (37) - knew each other for three years. "Recently, Ranjitha had borrowed a gold chain from a friend for a function. As she discussed everything with Indiramma, the latter thought of killing Ranjitha and stealing the chain. She hatched a conspiracy with her paramour, and went to Ranjitha's house on Saturday," police said.

"When Ranjitha had gone to take bath, Indiramma called Rajashekhar. As soon as Ranjitha came out of the bathroom, Rajashekhar strangled her with a cable and slit her throat with a knife. Unable to find the chain, the duo decided to take her mangalasutra and ear studs," police added.

Rajinikanth waves after a meeting with office-bearers of Rajini Makkal Mandram party in Chennai on Monday

TAKING THE FINAL BOW

Rajini winds up his political party

T MURUGANANDHAM @Chennai

WITHIN an hour of creating big expectations about his entry into politics again, actor Rajinikanth doused the speculations quickly by asserting that he would never enter politics. The actor further stated that the Rajini Makkal Mandram(RMM) would be dissolved and continue as a fans club - Rajinikanth Rasigar Narpani Mandram.

"Due to various situations, our wish to launch a political party did not fructify. Also, I don't have any intention to enter politics in future too. As such, the RMM will be dissolved and it will continue to function as Rajinikanth Rasigar Narpani Mandram," Rajinikanth said in a statement here, after holding discussions with the district secretaries of the RMM here.

The actor further said "After my announcement that I could not enter politics in December last, questions like what is the status of the Mandram and its duties have been lingering in the minds of the office-bearers of Mandram as well as my fans. I must clarify these issues."

The actor recalled that Rajinikanth Rasigar Narpani Mandram was converted into Rajinikanth Makkal Mandram to launch a political party and many new posts in the Mandram besides many wings were also created.

Ahead of his meeting with RMM office-bearers, the actor said there were questions among his fans about whether he would enter politics or not in future and that he would clarify these issues after consulting them. This created a lot of expectations as to whether he was reconsidering his options for entering politics.

INVESTORS CHEER KITEX MOVE TO EXIT KERALA

Firm MD says talks on with Karnataka, TN, Andhra for future expansion

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kochi

THE stock market has cheered Kitex Garments' announcement to move out its expansion plan from Kerala to investor friendly Telangana. As the stock prices rose, Kitex chairman and managing director Sabu Jacob became richer by ₹222 crore in the last seven days as he owns 55% in the BSE-listed company.

The stock price of the Kochi-based kids' garment maker shot up by 44.26% since Friday when Sabu announced the decision to invest ₹1,000 crore in Telangana, dumping its earlier investment plan for Kerala following the rift with the Left government.

After rising by nearly 20% on Friday, the stock price spiked another 20% on Monday when Sabu Jacob said his company would not make any more investments in Kerala, and that he was in discussions with Tamil Nadu, Andhra Pradesh and Karnataka for his future expansions.

Since the controversy broke out between the Kerala government and Kitex Garments, the stock price of the company has increased from ₹108.9 a piece to ₹168.65 on Monday, an astounding rise of 55 per cent in a matter of just five trading sessions.

The total value of Kitex touched ₹1,121.52 crore, an increase of ₹408.32 crore from last Tuesday.

> Kitex Group is in talks with the industries ministers of Tamil Nadu Karnataka and Andhra Pradesh. It is a golden opportunity for Kitex and we are getting attractive offers from all states
>
> Sabu Jacob, Kitex chairman and MD

The spike in stock prices of Kitex Garments, which is the world's third-largest infant garment maker, is surprising given that the company's net profits have been coming down. For the quarter ended March 2021, the net profit of Kitex Garments plunged by 53.06% to ₹8.27 crore as against ₹17.62 crore during the same quarter the previous year. The total sales had also declined by 23.65% to ₹111.70 crore in the quarter ended March 2021.

Karnataka police to have 'scene of crime' officers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

IN a first in the country, very soon the Karnataka State Police will have 'scene of crime officers' (SoC officers) to gather crucial and minute evidence from crime scenes. The State Government has sanctioned 206 posts for which the recruitment process may commence soon.

The SoC officers will be trained investigators and the recruits will undergo training at the Forensic Science Laboratory (FSL). Their primary objective will be to visit crime scenes, protect and gather scientific and forensic evidence, dispatch them to FSLs, assist investigation officers by providing evidence material, which may lead to the early arrest of culprits. The system, which mostly exists in advanced countries, is expected to detect and prevent of crimes better.

Home Minister Basavaraj Bommai said, "So far, the local police were doing this job. To make investigations more effective, there was a need for experts to gather evidence from crime scenes. The government has sanctioned 206 posts. Initially, the officers will be used only for cases of serious nature. Gradually, more officers will be recruited," he said.

Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa will formally hand over the orders passed in this regard to DG & IGP Praveen Sood during an event at Vidhana Soudha on Tuesday, while also distributing service medals to police, fire and emergency staff, and home guards. He will also launch the Vidyanidhi-2 project through which children of policemen can get quality education.

Pomegranate farmers get help from Horti Dept to beat blight

ENS @ Bengaluru

WITH the 'Bacterial blight' in pomegranate causing major damage to the fruit quality, forcing some farmers in Belagavi district and other places to destroy the plantation, the State Horticulture Department has got into action to assist farmers.

Horticulture Department Principal Secretary Rajender Kumar Kataria on Monday told The New Indian Express that the department officials have been directed to visit the farms along with scientists to look into the reasons and give a report so that corrective measures can be taken at the earliest. While officials of the Raitha Sampark Kendras (RSK) have also been asked to provide the required assistance to farmers, the Centre for Excellence for Pomegranate in Bagalkot is also looking into the issue.

Kataria said farmers can approach local officials of the Horticulture Department who will provide the required assistance.

'Filmi' twist to cheating case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mysuru

AN attempt-to-cheat case for misusing and forging documents of actor Darshan Thoogudeepa and his close aides that came to light on Sunday seems to be no less than a film script as recent developments in the case implies the handiwork of a person 'known' to the film star.

A day after a woman and two men were booked for allegedly creating forged documents and misusing Darshan's name to cheat his close aide, the actor held a press meet with the complainant, Harsha Melanta, a businessman, and several of his friends.

The trio, Aruna Kumari, Madhukeshava and Nandisha, have also been booked for trying to extort money.

Though Darshan did not take the names of any accused, he released an 'audio clip' of the accused woman conversing with him and also a 'WhatsApp chat' between her and producer Umapathy Srinivas.h

The actor said, "Though the police are investigating the case, I gathered information and did an inquiry on my own." He did not accuse Umapathy of any wrongdoing, saying the police probe will answer it. "Umapathy needs to clarify on all this," he added.

Umapathy, who had accompanied Darshan on Sunday when he went to ACP's office to give a statement and file a complaint, was not at the press conference on Monday, suggesting that all is not well between the two.

Many unanswered questions

The woman accused in the case is the ex-wife of Kumar, an employee of a hotel run by complainant Harsha at Hebbal in Mysuru. Kumar, who was present at the press meet, claimed that he and his wife separated eight years ago and he was not aware of her involvement in the case.

It is learnt that the woman first gave a statement that she did the con job at the behest of Mallesh, but later blamed Umapathy.

Umapathy told reporters in Bengaluru that only a detailed police probe will bring out the truth.

Senior citizen kidnapped, forced to sign land sale papers

Bengaluru: A gang of seven allegedly kidnapped an 87-year-old man and forced him to sign sale documents regarding his site. The incident took place in Mallathahalli near Jnanabharathi police station. Based on a complaint by the victim, Raghav Rao, a case has been registered against one Prabhu and four others. A police officer said Rao, who was staying in an old-age home, had recently shifted to his house at Bhavaninagar. His children live in Mysuru. He owns a site in Railway Layout. Two weeks ago, the gang barged inside his house, bundled him into a car, and drove him around the city, before taking him to the sub-registrar's office in Rajajinagar. Here, the gang forced him to sign documents before threatening him. Later, he was taken to a bank to withdraw cash of Rs 20,000. Since he is visually-challenged, he was unable to approach police immediately. He filed a case after discussing with his daughter. ENS

CAN COOPERATION MINISTRY CHANGE INDIA'S AGRI STORY?

Which would you rate as among the most lacklustre ministries that New Delhi has seen? In the best traditions of laissez-faire, there would be pretty stiff competition there. But bring in agriculture, and go towards the prehistory of the present agitation—the long story from the initial hurrahs of the Green Revolution, to the deep disquiet at how that has itself become a leviathan that sucks the lifeblood out of our soil itself. Any way you look at it, the long stint that Sharad Pawar had at the helm should count as among formatively the most uninspiring, and counterproductive. The immiseration of Vidarbha—and the larger Deccan—was happening in front of him. It would have been obvious to any observer with a sense of India's past that cooperatives were the way to go—to offer a cushion to the individual farmer, and to maximise the benefits from collective bargaining, from information flow, from having a collective wisdom to judge the (often dubious) fruits of 'modernisation', to be able to play the markets in a way most beneficial for the farmer.

Would the new 'Cooperation Ministry' headed by Amit Shah fill the gap? Judging by the immediate past of the government—and the longer past in terms of the relevant personnel—it may be a bit optimistic to see this ministry as heralding some neo-Gandhian dawn. The Centre-state tussle this may inaugurate could be only a symptom of the malaise. There are two things we need to care about. One, the farmers, whether agro or dairy—an overwhelming majority of India finds its sustenance here; take all those neoliberal theories about pushing 70% of our population out of farming with a handful of organic rock salt. Two, farming itself. It obviously has to be sustainable. And we need to get that viable, universally enriching model into dairy, sugar, fisheries or in fertiliser. We need to leave India intact for the future. It may be too early to sow hope.

MESSI FINALLY TASTES ARGENTINA HEAVEN

Moments after the referee blew for full-time in the Copa America final between Argentina and Brazil, Lionel Messi was on his knees. And the tears flowed. It showed what the moment meant for him; it also showed what it meant for Argentina's footballers who ran en masse to envelop Messi in a hug. The absence of a senior international title had been weighing him down personally. At the Maracana on Saturday evening, that weight was removed off his shoulders as the Albiceleste won their first title since 1993. A long time for a football-mad nation. A longer time still for a country that has inarguably had the game's greatest player competing for them since 2007. Messi has seen moments come and go. Messi has seen generations come and go. He had also seen his team flounder chances in three consecutive finals: the 2014 World Cup, and the 2015 and 2016 Copas America. Messi had even witnessed the wider Argentine society question whether he had the fire in him to play for the national team. All that evaporated after the team beat Brazil 1-0 in a match that will not be remembered for a long time. Not that Messi, who finished with four goals and five assists in six games, will care. He finally has the trophy that he longed for his entire career.

The result also brings into focus the larger point about how we define greatness. The 34-year-old Argentinian footballer, by any yardstick, is one of the greatest players of all time but the lack of an international title was held against him by everybody. But even if the result had gone Brazil's way, it wouldn't have changed his legacy in any way.

What next for Messi? With the weight of pressure off his shoulders, he will definitely captain his side at next year's World Cup in Qatar (provided they qualify). Having last won the Cup in 1986, Argentina will again look up to their talisman to give them another high before he walks away into the sunset.

If we deploy the hitherto under-utilised social vaccine effectively now, we can hope to mitigate the impact of more infectious, vaccine-resistant viral variants in a third wave

WHAT SHOULD WE DO TO PREVENT A THIRD COVID WAVE?

DR M S SESHADRI
Medical Director, Thirumalai Mission Hospital, Ranipet

DR T JACOB JOHN
Former Professor of Clinical Virology, CMC, Vellore

AMIT BANDRE

India should have learnt its lessons from the two Covid-19 waves, the first with the less transmissible founder virus variant extended over a period of over 10 months and the second with highly transmissible variants including Delta (B.1.617.2) that caused four times the number of confirmed infections and deaths (actual numbers are probably many times higher) in four months. These overwhelmed our healthcare system. The second wave was more aggressive because we let our guard down and permitted large gatherings without insisting on Covid-appropriate behaviour.

The Indian Institute of Technology, Kanpur has predicted an imminent 'third wave'. It is high time that we, as a nation, took stock of the situation and acted quickly and decisively to avert or minimise a third wave.

The question now before us is not whether India will have a third wave, but whether we have plans in place to prevent one. What should we do by way of comprehensive and meticulous planning?

The 16 January 2021 roll-out of vaccines met with vaccine hesitancy (due to lack of public education) initially and shortage (due to lack of advance purchase plans) later—both factors resulting in inadequate inoculation cover. The Union government's move to centralise purchase of vaccines and distribute them free through the states will improve equitable availability; despite all this, in the last six months, as of July 10, only 7.7% of Indians have received two doses and 32.1% a single dose; it may take many more months before we have adequate (60-80%) vaccination cover of the population to avert the risk of a third wave. What are our other options?

Right from the onset of the pandemic, we had an effective, readily available but grossly under-utilised tool—the social vaccine. Its effective deployment could have minimised the impact of the second wave. It is never too late; if we deploy this effectively now, we can hope to mitigate the impact of any emergent, more infectious, even vaccine-resistant viral variants—in other words, a potential third wave.

Effective implementation of the social vaccine requires giving out authentic information, educating the entire population, involving all stakeholders and communicating through all available platforms. We literally need to go on a publicity blitzkrieg and convey the message, 'Adopt Covid-appropriate behaviour'. Additional messages on vaccine safety and efficacy should be included. This exercise is best done in each panchayat and ward nationwide.

We should avoid crowds at all costs, especially as the Delta variant can be airborne in enclosed spaces. The number of people inside enclosed spaces should be strictly restricted; open-air markets should be encouraged along with everyone wearing a mask and maintaining a physical distance of at least an arms length.

Public gatherings in enclosed spaces and public transport should only be allowed with adequate cross-ventilation, with air-conditioners switched off and everyone wearing a double mask. Mandatory requirement of vaccination and Covid-appropriate behaviour for entry into enclosed public facilities—transport, shopping areas, malls, meetings and places of worship—will surely curtail spread of coronavirus infection.

The vaccination and Covid status (active or recovered) of each person is Aadhaar-linked. Our software professionals must quickly develop an internet-based app to verify vaccination status and Covid-infection status of any given individual using a laptop or smartphone at the entrance to enclosed public facilities; those without a mask should buy one (made available at entry) and wear it properly before entering—not to forget hand sanitisation.

The recent bold step by Arunachal Pradesh to permit entry only to vaccinated people can be emulated by other states to protect their population.

Urban India, well-connected by transport, nationally and internationally, has borne the brunt of this pandemic so far. Rural India, with ~65 % of India's population, has been less exposed to the virus—the more remote the village, the greater the proportion of vulnerable subjects. It makes eminent sense to accelerate vaccination from periphery to Centre. Well-equipped mobile vans to take vaccines to remote rural areas is a priority. Vaccination without prior registration enables non-tech-savvy rural folk to access jabs readily. Regulatory agencies should quickly license one or more vaccines to permit ready access to the jabs for everyone at any time.

Bridging studies on vaccination in children should be quickly completed, analysed and, once safety is assured, universal Covid inoculation for children adopted. Online schooling should continue until children can be vaccinated at camps in schools before rejoining physical classes. Prioritised vaccination of disadvantaged rural school children—for whom access to online education is impossible—will enable their early return to schools, access to mid-day meals, education and school-health programs, all vital for their well-being.

Reversible contraception should be advised for newlywed couples till both partners are fully vaccinated before pregnancy. Households with pregnant women should scrupulously adopt Covid-appropriate behaviour. Counselling to overcome vaccine hesitancy and inoculating all pregnant women with vaccines considered safe in pregnancy are necessary steps.

Antenatal clinics, ultrasound scan centres and labour rooms should be safe for pregnant women; effective Covid-prevention steps should be in place along with routine thermal screening and RT-PCR/rapid antigen testing, triage of pregnant women with fever in a separate designated area till Covid-test reports are available and segregation of non-Covid pregnant women from those with Covid to prevent cross-infection.

Emerging evidence that men, the elderly and those with comorbidities who are at highest risk of developing serious disease have reduced immune response to both natural infection and vaccination points to a research priority—will a third dose of an appropriate vaccine enhance their protection from serious disease and death?

Systematic ongoing studies to identify new mutational variants is mandatory, with a special focus on any region showing a rapid increase in epidemic momentum.

If we do all this, with will and wisdom—and only if we do all this as a nation—we can be confident and avert even the remote probability of a third wave.

RESURRECTING THE RECYCLE ECONOMY

ANURADHA GOYAL

Author and founder of IndiTales

A regular change of battery and some routine servicing is what my very ordinary laptop required. I reached out to the manufacturer but received only promises of best service. After weeks of follow-up when I did receive a quotation for the potential parts that may need replacement, it was a no-brainer that the company was more interested in selling new products than servicing old ones. Their army of call centre, social media and service centre employees subtly nudge you in that direction.

Some time ago, the power supply unit of our high-end television from a respected Japanese manufacturer went kaput. The small part was quoted at 15% of the cost of the TV, to be paid in advance to the dealer, with three-four weeks procurement time—that he failed to procure eventually. Yes, that is how timelines work in small town India. The reply from the company's customer support head said: "We are unable to source the part, please buy a new unit. We offer you a generous 25% discount on the new one if you exchange the old." When questioned about their legal obligation to supply the part, the same response was repeated. No inclination to repair, please buy a new one.

Yet, all my screens are flooded with 'Go Green' initiatives of these very companies, meticulously including the words—Reuse, Recycle, Upcycle, duly amplified by glamourous influencers. In moments of frustration, I wonder if gadgets are indeed designed to go bad once the warranty period is over. Why just big corporates, even the neighbourhood cobbler throws away my fancy shoes and says, "Madam, why do you bother to repair, get a new one", and I wonder why he is killing his own business, only to notice the jazzy shoe showroom behind him.

Waste in general and e-waste in particular are creating havoc for the environment, which in turn creates problems for our health and happiness. However, most corporates, driven by the sole purpose of increasing sales and revenue, can hardly see this. Their profit margins are higher on sales; repairs are a necessary evil that demand keeping an inventory of old parts and trained manpower to service them across the geography. The sales cycle is more or less one way and ends with the receipt of money. Repairs on the other go back and forth with no guarantee of revenue or return on investments on the repair ecosystem.

Our legal system gives a long rope to the organisations. Taking them to court is constitutionally and theoretically an option, but fails terribly on practical grounds. Most big organisations have a legal department with well-paid lawyers to defend them, greatly shifting the balance in their favour. What do they have at stake: a unit of their product to be given for free at most? An average consumer on the other hand is completely on his own, and will have to spend time and resources chasing the organisation and courts. The cost of the product does not justify the effort and agony involved. Add to it the fact that the technical know-how is completely in the hands of the company, and jargon can be used to mislead. We do not see many cases where organisations not meeting their legal obligations had to pay. Overall, manufacturers can afford to take liberties while the average consumer suffers.

> Most companies are more interested in selling new products than servicing old ones. Their army of call centre, social media and service centre employees subtly nudge you in that direction. In moments of frustration, I wonder if gadgets are indeed designed to go bad once the warranty period is over. Meanwhile, all my screens are flooded with 'Go Green' initiatives of these very companies

At a time when the government is asking direct sales companies and social media platforms to put in place mechanisms to address customer complaints and grievances, we also need to assess the effectiveness of these customer services. Especially when they are managed by outsourced agencies, automated voice response mechanisms and bots. Customers in most cases have no control on opening and closing a service ticket, the only measure of effectiveness in handling complaints. The anonymity of the person handling your complaint and inability to raise it to the next authority leave nothing in the hands of customers.

The costs of replacement parts have to be regulated. Organisations cannot randomly price the parts of old products to discourage repairs. If the parts of old models are discontinued, technology for the same should be put in public domain so that anyone can manufacture them and repair old products.

The time is ripe for Recycle and Upcycle centres as business ventures. With a bit of skill-based training, youth can be trained to repair what can be repaired, upcycle and re-use the components smartly and creatively. I know there are small pockets of innovation here and there, but what we need is a nationwide or maybe worldwide movement. India always had a strong recycle culture—be it the regular raddiwala who took our waste to recycle or the plethora of small repair shops run by skilled professionals. The use-and-throw culture that has slowly crept in during the last couple of decades with too much choice and disposable income needs to be reversed at the earliest.

What gives me a little hope is the success of peer-to-peer recycle portals and apps that allow us to recycle and increase the lifespan of products we use, along with some of the zero-waste lifestyle groups online.

Harassment of businesses

It is unfortunate that Kitex Garments decided to divert the investment planned in Kerala to Telangana in view of the harassment it faced from the government officials and politicians. The Kerala government should be a little more serious about creating an investor-friendly atmosphere. When thousands of educated youth are unemployed in the state, the government must try its best to retain existing investors and attract new ones by offering various incentives.

Jayachandran Thoovat, Wayanad

Not investment friendly

Kitex Garments is shifting its business, with the chairman saying the company was virtually kicked out. It appears that Kerala is still not an investment-friendly state. Many companies have been forced to shut down their factories in the past due to the unruly labour unions.

Making the nation proud

Two people of Indian origin did the nation proud on Sunday. Sirisha Bandla became the third Indian-origin woman and the first Telugu one to fly into space, while Samir Banerjee won the junior Wimbledon title. Kudos to both of them.

Dr George Jacob, Kochi

Both have Telugu roots

Sirisha Bandla was born in Guntur, while Samir Banerjee's mother is from Andhra Pradesh. Both have Telugu roots. Sirisha went on her space odyssey and returned safely along with Richard Branson and Co. Samir won the Junior Wimbledon Championship crown on Sunday, defeating Victor Lilov in straight sets. We are proud of both of them.

He might make history

Serbian tennis player Novak Djokovic claimed his 20th Grand Slam title by defeating Matteo Berrettini in the Wimbledon finals and equalled his two formidable rivals Roger Federer and Rafael Nadal for the most Majors won by a man in tennis history. He is in fine form and is expected to pull off a calendar year Golden Slam by winning the US Open (and surpassing the present 20-Slam record) as well as a gold in the Tokyo Olympics.

Awareness is needed

This is with reference to Curious timing of draft law on UP population control (Jul 12). The new population policy draft put forward by the UP government looks good on paper but its reality on the ground may be different. The vision of this policy would be possible only when all the people are made aware of this. It is the government's responsibility to disseminate awareness among each and every individual in the state. Proper education on how to use temporary contraceptive methods is required. If all this is not done, the policy will not bear the fruit the government is hoping for.

M Rishidev, Dindigul

Worthy of emulation

The new UP population policy deserves accolades and is worthy of emulation by other states. Something like this is desperately needed to tackle the increase in the number of people in our country, which is defeating all developmental activities.

VHP not in favour of UP's population policy

Bihar CM Nitish chips in, saying educating women more effective tool to keep fertility rate within acceptable limits

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi/Patna

THE Vishwa Hindu Parishad (VHP) on Monday faulted the "Uttar Pradesh population (control, stabilization and welfare) Bill, 2021" on the grounds that the proposal to promote the one-child norm will lead to imbalance among various communities. It stated that this has been a failed project even in China, where it was adopted three decades ago. Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar also lent a cautionary note to the proposed legislative proposal, saying that more than law, educating women can better achieve the aim.

While the VHP welcomed the legislative proposal for its overall objective, its international general secretary Alok Kumar said that the fertility rate target of 1.7 per cent and encouraging one child through incentives should be reconsidered. In suggestions sent to state law commission of Uttar Pradesh, the VHP has argued that the proposal to incentivize government functionaries for having one child needs a relook.

"The population stability objective is achieved with a fertility rate above two per cent. Even with infant mortality, a fertility rate of 2.1 per cent can give the desired result of the population stability. The state should rather stick with a two-child policy," said Kumar in his suggestions to the state law commission, arguing that there could be social and economic repercussions in the event of the one-child policy can lead to imbalances among communities within the state by citing the example of Kerala and Assam, where Muslim fertility rates are 2.33 and 3.16, respectively, against less than 2.1 per cent of the Hindus.

Notice for discussion

BJP Lok Sabha MP Ravi Kishan has given a notice of private member Bill on population control notice. Another BJP MP Kirori Lal Meena wants the Rajya Sabha to consider a private member Bill on uniform civil code. In 2019, BJP's Rakesh Sinha gave a notice of a private member Bill on population. Overall, the two Houses of Parliament have seen 35 private member Bills on the issue, so far.

Meanwhile, Bihar chief minister Nitish Kumar, while quoting the state's model of population control through women education, said that only awareness cal help lower the fertility rate, leading to population control in a natural way.

"What the other states want to do, they should do it but we believe that population cannot be controlled by law alone. Unless women are educated, it is not possible to control the population," he said.

The chief minister stressed that women's education has helped significantly in checking fertility rate in Bihar. Drawing a parallel with China, he said: "A policy of one child was adopted by China, but we all know the prevailing situation and the consequent course correction in the state policy."

Nitish cited an example of how education can help bring down fertility rate. "Surveys that have been conducted so far have shown that if the woman is educated, then the fertility rate also decreases. Fertility rate has been found to be low in matriculate and inter-educated women in Bihar," he stressed.

In Bihar, he said, adequate attention is paid to education of girls and the results are encouraging. "Of late, fertility rate in Bihar has come down to three per cent from about four per cent. Our understanding is, fertility rate will start declining after 2040, leading to better and more effective population control."

No RT-PCR test for vaccinated MPs in Monsoon Session

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

PARLIAMENTARIANS, who have taken at least one dose of Covid-19 vaccine, will not be required to undergo RT-PCR tests to attend the Monsoon Session beginning on July 19.

The Monsoon Session of the Parliament will go on till August 13. For the first time since the pandemic hit India in March last year, sessions of both houses of the Parliament will be held simultaneously, ending the two-shift routine followed since September last year.

Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla on Monday noted that 411 members have already taken vaccines and the rest are yet to do that mainly because of medical reasons. Officials of the Lok Sabha Secretariat have also been vaccinated, said Birla. Vaccination facility will be available in the Parliament House Complex.

411 MPs taken the jab

Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla said 411 members of the Parliament have taken Covid-19 vaccines. Total strength of the Parliament is 795 (545 in Lok Sabha and 250 in Rajya Sabha)

Birla said even though the high percentage of fully vaccinated members is a relief, there will be no laxity in observing Covid-appropriate behaviour. All members will be expected to wear masks inside and outside the chamber. No visitors or staff of MPs will be allowed inside the premises.

In the last two sessions, to maintain social distancing, Rajya Sabha met in the morning and Lok Sabha in the afternoon, with the members spread out in the two chambers. "The Lok Sabha will meet as per its usual schedule from 11 am and both Houses will sit simultaneously," Birla said.

The Parliamentary Secretariat, Birla said, has also developed an online application on which live telecast of House proceedings can be seen. People will also be able to access the questions and answers tabled in the Parliament.

In the last Monsoon Session, the Lok Sabha Secretariat had introduced another online application to allow the members to mark their attendance without having to physically sign the register.

Speaking on the business transacted in the 17th Lok Sabha, the Speaker said that despite Covid, the Lok Sabha transacted record business during the first five sessions, compared to the previous Lok Sabhas. The 17th Lok Sabha has seen higher number of sittings that the 14th, 15th and 16th Lok Sabhas, which is reflected in the record productivity of the House. In this context, Birla highlighted that several members have done significant work during the Covid-19 period and their best practices will be shared for the benefit of others. After the pandemic began, three sessions of the Parliament were curtailed while the Winter Session had to be cancelled.

IMA warns against mass gatherings

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

STATING that the a third wave of Covid-19 is "inevitable and imminent", the Indian Medical Association(IMA) on Monday appealed to the Central and state governments to control mass gatherings.

Voicing concern over governments and people being complacent and engaging in mass gatherings without following protocols, the IMA said these events are potential super spreaders for a third wave. The doctors' body said global evidence and the history of any pandemic suggests that "the third wave is inevitable and imminent" and therefore, tourist bonanza, pilgrimage travel, religious events can wait for a few more months.

"It is painful to note that in this crucial time, when everyone needs to work for the mitigation of the third wave, in many parts of the country, governments and the public are engaged in mass gatherings without following Covid protocols," IMA said.

No decision yet on PG medical admissions

"STAGGERED time slots for entry and exit, contactless registration, proper sanitisation, seating with social distancing etc. will also be ensured... All furniture and fixtures and seats will be sanitised before and after the exams. The examination room/halls will have open windows and fans for proper air circulation," his ministry said.

However, no decision has been taken yet on admission to postgraduate medical courses. The Supreme Court on Monday took strong note on the delay in announcing counselling for NEET-PG admissions in dental surgery for exams held on December 16, 2020. "You have been dilly-dallying for a year. Tell us within a week as to when are you holding it," bench of Justices D Y Chandrachud and M R Shah said.

As many as 13.66 lakh students took the NEET-UG exam on September 13 last year, which is the entry point for admission to MBBS, BDS, AYUSH courses in government and private colleges. Of them, 7,71,500 candidates cleared the test.

Don't delay NEET PG counselling, SC tells govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Monday urged the Central government to finalise NEET-MDS 2021 counselling schedule within a week and asked the ministry of health not to dilly-dally the schedule any more.

A bench of Justices DY Chandrachud and MR Shah took exception to the delay by the Central government in not arriving at a decision and asked the government to do so by this week.

"The ministry of health is just dilly-dallying. These are hands-on courses and these doctors will be in the service of patients," said Justice Chandrachud.

Additional Solicitor General KM Nataraj, appearing for the Central government, sought a week to file a detailed response which the court eventually allowed.

"On the request of ASG, we grant a week's time for the response to the grievance set out in the plea. We expect an expeditious decision will be taken in this week and we would be informed when Centre proposes to conduct counselling," the order stated.

"We hope the Centre will be conscious to the ramifications of the delay being faced by students due to the non-counselling of students," the court added.

The top court had, on July 2, issued a notice on the plea challenging the unjust and infinite delay by the Medical Counselling Committee (MCC) in announcement of the counselling schedule for National Eligibility cum Entrance Test and Masters of Dental Surgery courses (NEET-MDS) 2021.

The plea said that the entrance exam was conducted on December 16, 2020. Thereafter, results were also declared on December 31, 2020. However, after the declaration of results, there has been no update yet regarding counselling. The students are in pause mode.

One dead, 10 missing in landslide & flash floods

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

DUE to landslide triggered by heavy rains, one woman died and 10 persons are feared missing from the remote and high-altitude village of Boh in Kangra district of Himachal Pradesh. Also, flash flood was reported from Bhagsunag area of Dharamsala, where flood waters swept through the streets and damaged cars of the tourists.

Three national highways have been blocked because of this. The Central government has deployed NDRF teams to deal with the situation.

Due to landslide in Boh, some 30 kilometres from Dharamsala, one woman died and ten are missing after debris fell on five to six houses. It is feared that people are trapped inside those houses. The landslide occurred in the morning, but rescue teams could not reach by the evening, as the road to the area was blocked due to landslides. A few JCB machines had been deployed to clear the road, said sources.

A police official said one body has been recovered. An accurate estimate of casualties can be made only after the rescue operation is over.

Due to heavy monsoon rains, most of the rivers flowing from Dhauladhar hills were in full flow, causing flash floods in Bhagsunag area and lower Dharamsala. Due to encroachments on natural drains, the water swept through the streets and many cars parked there were damaged. Three houses and five shops in Bagli area on Dharamsala-Kangra road were damaged. The road from Sheela to Bagli was also damaged.

Road blockades slow down rescue operation

In Shimla, the national highway near Jhakri in the Rampur area has been blocked due to the heavy downpour. The Chandigarh-Manali and Pathankot-Mandi national highways are also blocked. These blockades have slowed down the rescue process, said officials

Union Home Minister Amit Shah said NDRF teams had been deployed to deal with the situation in Himachal Pradesh. Shah has also spoken to Himachal Chief Minister Jairam Thakur, who expressed concern over the losses due to heavy rains in certain parts of the state. He has directed administrations of various districts to ensure speedy relief and rescue. He urged locals and tourists to refrain from going near the river banks.

Deaths caused by lightning doubled in 50 years

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

WITH 74 people killed due to lightning in UP, MP and Rajasthan in the last 24 hours, thunderstorms accompanied by lightning remains the largest killer natural disaster in the country, claiming over 2000 lives annually since 2004.

Data collated by the National Disaster Management Authority (NDMA) and Indian Meteorological Department (IMD) shows that people killed due to lightning strikes has doubled since the late 1960s. There were 2,876 deaths due to lightning in 2019. Between 1968 and 2019, this figure was around 1,000.

Condoling the loss of lives, Prime Minister Narendra Modi announced an ex gratia of ₹2 lakh for family members of the deceased and ₹50,000 for those injured. State governments have also announced compensation for those affected.

Search operation at Amer Fort in Jaipur, where lightning claimed 11 lives | PTI

Lightning incidents increase during the onset of monsoon over Rajasthan, Bihar, Uttar Pradesh and Madhya Pradesh, with high moisture levels and increase in surface temperature, making it favourable for formation of thunder clouds.

The mortality rates of heatwaves and lightning, have increased by 62.2 per cent and 52.9 per cent, respectively, whereas the mortality rate of tropical cyclones has reduced by 94 per cent in the past 20 years, according to a paper by the ministry of earth sciences. It is called "An assessment of long-term changes in mortalities due to extreme weather events in India: A study of 50 years' data (1970-2019)".

SD Pawar, project director thunderstorm dynamics, Indian Institute of Tropical Meteorology, Pune, said between 1995 and 2014, there was a jump of nearly 30 to 40 per cent in lightning incidents in India and the number of deaths has also increased significantly from the 1990s to now.

Pawar said the reason behind the increase in lightning incidents may be linked to climate change and the availability of increased moisture over land due to warming.

High speed SC proceedings soon

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

WITH the aim of ensuring transparency, the Supreme Court will soon be able to commence its operations for audio-video recording of court proceedings. Justice DY Chandrachud said the Supreme Court has already awarded the tender to a platform which will commence operations soon.

Justice Chandrachud also communicated that all judges of the Supreme Court are equipped with internet connections of 1000 MBPS speed to do away with disturbances, as these hearings demand a greater bandwidth. The judge added that there will also be back-up data connection.

The remark came when the bench of Justices Chandrachud and Hrishikesh Roy reconvened after lunch but Justice Roy could not immediately join due to some technical glitch.

"We put out an all-India tender, the best players responded and they were all duly evaluated. It is not that these things were not looked at at all. Being the highest court in the country, we didn't just pick any one. A technical committee was constituted to evaluate the bids and this was followed by a presentation of shortlisted bidders. The tender has been awarded and the work begun. The system is being stabilised and the Supreme Court is in the process of handing over everything to them," said Justice Chandrachud, Chairman of the Supreme Court E-Committee.

The Supreme Court is currently using the 'Vidyo' platform, which has often come under criticism for lack of user-friendliness.

Justice Chandrachud added that in the new software which is being put in place, the court will have the ability to mute participants, ensuring that there are no disturbances and everybody except for the advocates appearing in a matter is muted.

Jaishankar, Pak counterpart to share stage

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

EXTERNAL Affairs Minister S Jaishankar will share stage with his Pakistani counterpart Shah Mehmood Qureshi in Dushanbe later this week. The two will take part in the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation foreign ministers' meeting.

The meeting to be held today and on Wednesday will have the deterioration of the security situation in Afghanistan as its key agenda.

It will be followed by a meeting of the SCO contact group on Afghanistan, which will formulate a strategy on the future of the country.

According to sources, it is unlikely that Jaishankar and Qureshi will have one-on-one talks.

Assam Cattle Bill bans sale of beef near temple

Bill tabled by CM Sarma also says cow cannot be slaughtered, prohibits sale in areas having non-beef eating communities

Rajior Dal MLA Akhil Gogoi speaks to the media during the first day of the Budget Session of Assam Assembly, in Guwahati on Monday | PTI

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

ASSAM CM Himanta Biswa Sarma on Monday tabled the Assam Cattle Preservation Bill seeking a ban on cattle slaughter besides prohibiting the sale of beef in certain areas.

The Bill also bans the transport of cattle from one district to another and outside Assam for checking bovine smuggling to Bangladesh, which shares a 263-km long border with the state.

"Provided that the state government may exempt certain places of worship or certain occasions for slaughter of cattle other than calf, heifer and cow for religious purposes…

"No person shall transport or offer for transport or cause to be transported any cattle without valid permit from any place of other state through Assam to any place outside the state of Assam, any place within the state of Assam to any place outside the state of Assam where slaughter of cattle is not regulated by law," the Bill reads.

It, however, has certain exemptions on transportation of cattle. Competent authority may issue permit for transport of cattle for purposes related to agricultural or animal husbandry, the Bill reads.

Beef cannot be sold in areas which have a predominant population of Hindus, Sikhs, Jains and other non-beef-eating communities, or within a radius of 5km of any temple, 'satra' (Vaishnavite monastery), or other religious institutions belonging to Hindu religion, or any other institution or area as may be prescribed by the competent authority, it states.

Incidentally, beef is consumed in Meghalaya, Mizoram and Nagaland. The Meghalaya government has expressed its concern over possible choking of supply. Meghalaya CM Conrad K Sangma recently said his government would approach the Centre if the Assam cattle law affects the people and the economy of Meghalaya.

TOUGH PENALTIES FOR VIOLATORS

- Those violating the law will face at least three-year jail, or a fine varying between ₹3 lakh and ₹5 lakh, or both
- If someone convicted under the new law is found guilty of the same or a related offence the second time, the punishment will be doubled

New ministry will be used to control cooperatives: Kharge

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

LEADER of the Opposition in the Rajya Sabha Mallikarjun Kharge on Monday alleged that the BJP's objective behind creating the cooperation ministry was to control the rich cooperative sector of the country.

He said earlier the finance-related issues were handled by the finance minister, but Amit Shah, who is the home minister, has kept the Enforcement Directorate with him.

"This means Amit Shah controls the ED to target his political opponents and silence their voices. The same thing will happen with the cooperation department. Earlier, it was part of the Agriculture Ministry, but the Centre has made it a separate ministry. Shah has been made in charge of this department too. Does it not clearly show the BJP intention? The BJP has never been able to control the cooperative sector, so they are doing it in a circuitous manner," Kharge alleged.

"We'll protest the decision. The government needs to protect the rural economy's flourishing sector," said the Congress leader.

The Modi government recently created a new Ministry of Co-operation with senior leader Amit Shah heading it.

Meanwhile, NCP chief Sharad Pawar said the Centre had no right to control the cooperative sector. "The Centre can control the multi-states cooperative sector, not the states' cooperative sector. If they try to do it, then it will be an attack on federalism."

Maharashtra alone has over 200 cooperative sugar factories whose annual turnover is around ₹35,000 crore while the cooperative milk federation and allied businesses' turnovers are collectively over ₹40,000 crore.

'Electricity will be given free if BJP retains Uttarakhand'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Dehradun

UTTARAKHAND Cabinet minister Harak Singh Rawat on Monday announced that electricity will be free for the people of the state if the BJP retains power next year.

"In the present situation, no government will be able to provide 300 units of free electricity to the people of Uttarakhand. But we promise that in next three-four years, we can provide free electricity to farmers as well as other people of Uttarakhand," said the power minister.

The announcement is seen as a step to counter AAP chief Arvind Kejriwal's announcement to provide 300 units of free electricity if the Aam Aadmi Party forms the government in the state.

Meanwhile, Chief Minister Pushkar Singh Dhami said the government is already providing 24x7 power at "a very low cost."

Earlier, on Sunday Kejriwal in his press conference in Dehradun had promised to provide free electricity to the farmers of Uttarakhand. "Today our farmers are the poorest. If we help our farmers, they will have spare money for children and family. We have seen corruption in power bills. Pending dues, bills of electricity will be waived,"he had said. The promise of free electricity will cost around ₹1,200 crore which can be easily done from the ₹50,000-crore state budget, he had said.

The AAP has already announced to contest all 70 seats in Uttarakhand. The state election will be a keenly watched affair as Tirath Singh Rawat recently resigned as the chief minister less than four months after taking over in the state. Pushkar Singh Dhami then stepped in to fill the chair.

Editors Guild flags threat to media in UP

New Delhi: The Editors Guild of India said it was 'deeply disturbed' by the continuing trend of heavy-handedness by the UP government with respect to journalists. Regarding the assault on a journalist by the Unnao CDO on July 10, it sought strict action against the official to improve the state of independent journalists. "Guild finds this incident highly condemnable and actionable. This incident has come against the backdrop of increased persecution of journalists in UP as the administration has punished, penalised and incarcerated journalists in an effort to intimidate them from freely reporting on crimes, state excesses and the management of the pandemic," said the Guild.

Tharoor, Tewari in the race for Adhir's post as Congress leader in LS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

WITH the monsoon session of Parliament beginning next week, the Congress is looking at a leadership change in the Lok Sabha. Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury is expected to be replaced as the leader of the Congress in the Lok Sabha as part of party's organisational reshuffle.

According to sources, Shashi Tharoor and Manish Tewari are leading the race to replace him. The names of Gaurav Gogoi, Ravneet Singh Bittu and Uttam Kumar Reddy are also doing the rounds. Sources further said former Congress president Rahul Gandhi will not take up that position.

Chowdhury is also the West Bengal Congress unit president, where the party was wiped out in the recent Assembly elections. Ever since, rumours about his axing as the party's leader in the Lok Sabha were doing the rounds, citing the one-man-one-post rule, especially because he has no leverage now. The speculation has since strengthened with indications that the rule will be rigorously enforced now.

As for Tewari, he is also in the race to head the troubled Punjab unit of the party, which is expected to be announced soon. The monsoon session will begin in July 19.

Both Tharoor and Tewari are part of the group of G23 leaders who wrote to Congress chief Sonia Gandhi last year seeking clarity on leadership issues.

The monsoon session is expected to be stormy with the Congress planning to demand a Joint Parliamentary Committee probe into the Rafale jet deal. A French court's recent order to probe charges of corruption and favouritism in the deal, gave impetus to the Congress campaign against the bilateral agreement. The government's handling of the second wave of the pandemic, too, will be under the critical gaze of parliamentarians.

'Three arrested in Kashmir's Anantnag are IS operatives'

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

THREE persons arrested in south Kashmir's Anantnag district on Sunday were ISIS members and had been propagating the global terror group's ideology through the online propaganda magazine Voice of Hind, the National Investigation Agency said.

The trio was identified as Umar Nisar, Tanveer Ahmad Bhat and Rameez Ahmad Lone, all residents of Anantnag. They were among six persons detained by the NIA during raids at seven locations — one in Srinagar and six in Anantnag.

Based on the trio's questioning, searches were conducted at two more locations in Anantnag on Monday and a number of digital devices and other materials were seized, a NIA spokesperson said. On Sunday, too, the NIA had recovered incriminating documents, digital devices and T-shirts with ISIS logo.

Akhilesh, Maya question Qaeda arrests; BJP calls out vote bank politics of SP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Lucknow

A political bout has started in Uttar Pradesh, where Assembly polls are due next year, over Sunday's arrest of two alleged al-Qaeda operatives from Lucknow. Two ex-CMs, SP chief Akhilesh Yadav and BSP's Mayawati have questioned the motive as well as the timing of the arrests made by the state police's ATS.

Just when the ATS operation was underway in the UP capital, Akhilesh told the media: "Mai Uttar Pradesh ki Police aur khaaskar BJP ki sarkar par bharosa nahi kar sakta (I don't believe UP Police and particularly the BJP government in the state)."

On Monday, Mayawati tweeted: "If the UP police claims are true, then it's a serious issue. However, since assembly polls are close, suspicion is bound to rise."

She said the question was how the police remained ignorant about it for so long.

Former state DGP and BJP Rajya Sabha member Brij Lal reacted sharply. "I can understand Akhilesh's unease that stems from the vote bank politics. It has always compelled his party to support the jihadis." He recalled that while he was posted as SSP Meerut in 1993, there was an attack on a PAC picket on Republic Day. For the first time RDX and Chinese grenades were used in UP, killing a PAC jawan, he said.

Suspected al-Qaeda terrorists being produced in a Lucknow court on Monday | PTI

"After Netaji (Mulayam Singh Yadav) came to power, it's well known how those arrested and charge-sheeted in the case were saved in 1994," said Lal.

The two suspects — Mihnaz Ahmad and Masiruddin — were produced before a special court in the state capital on Monday. The court sent the two to ATS custody for 14 days.

The UP ATS along with the local police are conducting searches in various other districts, particularly in Kanpur and west UP. Sources said at least three men were being questioned in Kanpur.

Police said the alleged al-Qaeda module planned serial blasts and lone-wolf attacks before Independence Day.

INTRA-PARTY FEUD

TMC PLANS TO CREATE MORE PARTY UNITS, YOUNG BLOOD

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Kolkata

IN an attempt to decentralise the party structure and avert feud over leadership, which has triggered embarrassment on several occasions, the Trinamool Congress is planning to create more party units in 23 districts, including Kolkata, and create more posts.

The move came after Mamata Banerjee held a three-hour meeting with election strategist Prashant Kishor, whom the TMC hired and is believed to be the architect of many government schemes enabling the party's victory in the recent Assembly elections. TMC sources said the party is likely to follow the BJP model by splitting major districts into several organisational zones.

"She (Mamata) wants to split the party's present district units into several parts and set up new committees. Each committee will be headed by a president. This is aimed to ensure smooth organisational operation and avert infighting over leadership control which affected the party's image at many places. These changes are being made in view of the civic body elections, which is overdue, panchayat polls in 2023 and Lok Sabha elections in 2024," said a TMC leader.

Party sources said the BJP has a similar organisational setup in bigger districts. The BJP has four units in North 24 Parganas and two units in each of Murshidabad and Nadia districts. The saffron camp refers to these units as organisational districts.

"Following Kishor's advice, Mamata Banerjee wants to enforce the one-man-one-post policy and elevate young leaders. Some announcements are expected to be made next week. The party will also re-launch its mouthpiece Jago Bangla," said another TMC leader.

After TMC's debacle in the Lok Sabha elections, in which BJP made deep inroads in the TMC turf by bagging 18 out of 42 seas, the ruling party replaced several senior leaders with young faces which led to infighting and defection to the BJP in some districts.

"The large-scale defection to the BJP had no impact on the Assembly poll results. Instead, the voters identified the defectors as traitors and power-hungry. The rejig in the party is expected to pave the way for the young leaders in districts who performed well in the recent polls with their clean image," said the leader.

Pawar displeased with Congress 'go solo' remarks

NCP chief Sharad Pawar has expressed displeasure over comments by Maharashtra Congress leaders that they want to contest local body elections on their own, rather than being part of the Maha Vikas Aghadi. Newly elected Mumbai Congress president Bhai Jagtap went to meet Pawar after taking charge. Pawar is learnt to have asked sarcastically whether Jagtap, too, was planning to go solo. Earlier, Maharashtra Congress president Nana Patole had made similar statements. Pawar did not seem to take Patole's remark seriously and brushed it aside, saying he does not comment on what 'small leaders' say.

Two parties tussle over Assembly Speaker post

Impressed with the performance of Bhaskar Jadhav as Speaker of the Maharashtra Assembly, Shiv Sena president and Chief Minister Uddhav Thackeray wants to retain him in that chair. In return, Shiv Sena wants to offer the forest ministry to Congress, which also wanted the Speaker's post. The forest minister's seat is lying vacant following the resignation of Sanjay Rathod, who had to go after the Tik Tok star suicide controversy. It is learnt that Bhaskar is also keen to continue as Speaker of the Assembly, provided his party gives him the responsibility. Jadhav has reportedly said that there is a growing sentiment among the constituents of the Maha Vikas Aghadi government that the Speaker should be from Shiv Sena. Nationalist Congress Party and Congress are the other parties in the coalition.

Kharge non-committal on next party chief

Congress is waiting for the pandemic to get over to elect its new president. Senior Congress leader Mallikarjun Kharge, who is in Mumbai, said party president Sonia Gandhi will continue as interim president. Word is that Rahul Gandhi would be pursuaded to take up the post he left after the 2019 Lok Sabha elections following the party's poor show. In the next Congress working committee meeting, the election of a new president will be discussed. All members will be called to participate in the meeting. In all likelihood, that meeting will take place next year.

Commission report on Khadse goes missing

The inquiry commission report giving a clean chit to former minister Eknath Khadse in a land grab case is missing from the state secretariat. Following allegations that Khadse had bought a three-acre plot reserved for the Maharashtra Industrial Development Corporation in Bhosari near Pune at less than one-sixth of its market value, former Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis had set up a probe commission headed by retired judge Dinkar Zoting. The commission had submitted its report, which cannot be found. Khadse left BJP and joined NCP last year.

It is informed that, you shall not transfer by way of sale, lease or otherwise any of the above mentioned secured assets without the Bank's written consent. In the event of your failure to discharge your liability and the bank initiates remedial actions as stated above, you shall further be liable to pay to the bank all cost, charges and expenses incurred in that connection. In case the dues are not fully satisfied with the sale proceeds of the secured assets, the bank shall proceed against you personally for the recovery of the balance amount without further notice. Your attention is also invited to the provisions of section 13 (8) of the Act, in respect of time available, to redeem the secured assets (security properties). This notice is issued without prejudice to the other rights and remedies available to the bank for recovering its dues.

Nepal Supreme Court ousts PM, reinstates dissolved Parliament

Directs President to appoint Nepali Congress chief Deuba as PM today

KATHMANDU

IN a landmark verdict, Nepal's Supreme Court on Monday directed President Bidya Devi Bhandari to appoint Nepali Congress chief Sher Bahadur Deuba as prime minister by Tuesday and reinstated the House of Representatives for a second time in five months.

A five-member Constitutional Bench of the Supreme Court led by Chief Justice Cholendra Shumsher Rana issued the verdict stating that President Bhandari's decision to dissolve the lower house upon a recommendation of Prime Minister K P Sharma Oli was an unconstitutional act, delivering a major blow to the veteran Communist leader who was preparing for snap polls.

The bench issued a mandamus to appoint Deuba as the Prime Minister by Tuesday.

Deuba, 74, has served as the prime minister on four occasions; first from 1995 to 1997, then from 2001 to 2002, again from 2004 to 2005, and from 2017 to 2018. Currently, he is the Leader of the Opposition in the House.

The court also ordered summoning a new session of the House of Representatives at 5pm on July 18.

Chief Justice Rana also said that the bench has concluded that party whip does not apply when lawmakers take part in the voting to elect new Prime Minister as per Article 76(5) of the Constitution.

President Bhandari had dissolved the 275-member lower house for the second time in five months on May 22 at the recommendation of Prime Minister Oli and announced snap elections on November 12 and November 19.

Last week, the Election Commission had announced the schedule for mid-term elections despite the uncertainty over polls.

5TH TERM AS PM

Sher Bahadur Deuba, 74, has served as the prime minister on four occasions; first from 1995 to 1997, then from 2001 to 2002, again from 2004 to 2005, and from 2017 to 2018. Currently, he is the Leader of the Opposition in the House.

Welcoming the apex court verdict, senior leader of the Nepal Communist Party-UML Madhav Kumar Nepal said that the judgement was commendable.

"The Supreme Court has done a commendable job. This has saved the political system that is in place. Since the court has directly asked to appoint Deuba as new prime minister, we have no role to play now," he said.

Under Madhav Nepal's leadership, 23 lawmakers of UML had put their signature in favour of Deuba's claim to the prime ministership.

Madhav Nepal also said that Parliament will now take all the decisions. "Parliament has been reinstated. We will now go to Parliament. All the decisions will be taken from Parliament now," he said. "The court's verdict has also raised moral questions on Oli's actions."

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Oli's supporters, including youths and students affiliated to the ruling CPN-UML, took to streets here to protest against the apex court's verdict against the 69-year-old Communist leader.

Cadres of the National Youth Force affiliated to CPN-UML gathered in Maitighar Mandal near the court premises chanting slogans against the verdict.

"We are not bound to accept all the orders passed by the Supreme Court, beware!" read a banner carried by the demonstrators. PTI

CARGO SHIP FIRE

Sri Lanka to compensate affected fishermen

COLOMBO

THE Sri Lankan government on Monday said it has started the process of paying compensation to local fishermen affected by the fire aboard a Singapore-flagged container ship that was carrying tonnes of hazardous chemicals and sank off the country's coast.

MV X-Press Pearl was carrying 1,486 containers of chemicals and cargo when it went up in flames on May 21 near the Colombo Port.

The Sri Lankan Navy, Airforce and the Indian Coast Guard jointly doused the fire in an operation that took days. However, the ship sank off Colombo's coast on June 17.

The state minister of fisheries, Kanchana Wijesekera, said the payment for the compensation has been made possible by an interim claim laid on the insurance company of the ship's owners.

"The local fishermen's activities were badly affected since May 20, in addition to the environmental damage. Our interim claim was in respect of expenditure incurred by state agencies in rescue work and assessing the damage," Wijesekera told reporters here.

He said out of the LKR 720 million ($40 million) to be received under the interim claim, LKR 420 million ($ 21,12,231) would be utilised to compensate the fishermen. PTI

PUBLIC NOTICE

This to inform the General Public that, my Client SRI.SHAIK GHOUSE BASAH, Son of Shaik Mahaboob Basha, aged about 48 years, residing at No.4-68-E, Usman Nagar, Rajampet, Cuddapah, STATE OF ANDHRA PRADESH-516115, now working and residing at Kuwait, holding an Indian Passport No.M 3188131, is the sole and absolute owner of an Immovable Commercial and Residential Property bearing Old House List No.1, carved out of Survey/Assessment No.38 of Manorayanapalya Village, Cholanayakanahalli Dhakale, Kasaba Hobli, Bengaluru North Taluk, assigned new BBMP Khata No.2, PID No.96-112-2, situated at 14th Cross, Manorayanapalya, new BBMP Ward No.22, Bengaluru, measuring East to West 27 feet and North to South 38 feet in total measuring 1026 sq.ft along with 7 squares of Commercial Shops in Ground Floor, 7 squares each in First and Second Floor residential houses and 2 squares in Third Floor of Resicental house, totally 23 squares of RCC roofed building, which is more fully described herein and herein after referred to as SCHEDULE PROPERTY and the same was purchased by my client under a Sale Deed dated 06.08.2018, registered as Document No.GNR-1-01958-2018-19, stored in C.D.No.GNRD146. Since he is staying in abroad, it being not convenient for him to personally look after the affairs of the Schedule Property. Hence he found it appropriate and also expedient to execute a General Power of Attorney on 11.07.2019 in favour of SRI.NAZEER, Son of Baba Sab, Aged about 56 years, Residing at No.50, 3rd Cross, Bhuvaneshwari Nagar, Sutthanpalya Main Road, R.T.Nagar Post, BENGALURU-560 032, presently residing at No.50, 3rd Main, 3rd Cross, Bhuvaneshwari Nagar, next to AVM Store, R.T.Nagar Post, BENGALURU-560 032 authorizing him to look after which includes execution of Rent Agreements with prospective Tenants and to collect the advance and Rental charges from the Tenants. But by taking an undue advantage of my client being residing and working in Kuwait, he miss-used the funds collected from the Tenants and have not paid the said amounts to my client. Whenever my client called him, in all the occasions he had given an evasive reasons. Thus he has miss-used the power conferred under General Power of Attorney dated 11.07.2019 and my client has lost the faith on him. Being aggrieved by the illegal act of SRI.NAZEER, the General Power of Attorney dated 11.07.2018 is TERMINATED/CANCELLED with immediate effect by issuing a Notice of Termination dated 21.06.2021. Henceforth the above referred SRI.NAZEER has no manner of right or interest to deal with any transaction in favour of any person/s on behalf of my client in respect of Schedule Property mentioned below. If anybody deals with SRI.NAZEER in respect of Schedule Property such transaction does not bind on my client and General Public will be doing it on your own cost and risk for which my client is not responsible.

Amid Taliban surge, top US commander to exit Afghanistan

KABUL

THE top US commander in Afghanistan is to hand over his command at a ceremony in the capital of Kabul on Monday, as America winds down its 20-year military presence and Taliban insurgents continue to gain territory across the country.

Gen. Scott Miller was poised to transfer authority to Marine Gen. Frank McKenzie, the head of US Central Command, according to a US official who spoke on condition of anonymity to confirm the developments.

McKenzie, also a four-star general, will operate from Central Command headquarters in Tampa, Florida. He will assume authority to conduct possible airstrikes in defence of Afghan government forces, at least until the US withdrawal concludes by August 31.

The handover ceremony took place in the heavily fortified Resolute Support headquarters in the heart of Kabul, at a time of rapid territorial gains by Taliban insurgents across Afghanistan. The Afghanistan National Defence and Security Forces, mostly funded by the United States and NATO, have put up resistance in some parts of the country, but overwhelmingly Afghan government troops appear to have abandoned the fight. In recent weeks, the Taliban have gained several strategic districts, particularly along the borders with Iran, Uzbekistan and Tajikistan. The Taliban control more than one-third of Afghanistan's 421 districts and district centres. A Taliban claim that they control 85 per cent of the districts is widely seen as exaggerated. After Miller's departure, a two-star admiral based at the US Embassy in Kabul will oversee the US military's role in securing the American diplomatic presence in Kabul, including defending the Kabul airport. AP

E-COMMERCE firm Flipkart has raised $3.6 billion in a major financing round since US retail behemoth Walmart acquired the company in 2018 for a controlling 77% stake for $16 billion.

The e-tailer is now valued at $37.6 billion post-money valuation, a significant jump it its valuation from $24.9 billion last year, when Walmart infused $1.2 billion in the company.

The current fund-raise also marks the come-back of Japanese tech investment giant SoftBank, which is the lead investor in Flipkart through its VisionFund 2.

SoftBank had earlier sold its 25% stake to Walmart at $4 billion. Sources said that the company may go for a listing on the US exchanges at $40 bn valuation by next year.

Besides Soiftbank, the financing round was also led by Singapore-based GIC, Canada Pension Plan Investment Board (CPP Investments), and Walmart along with investments from sovereign funds DisruptAD, Qatar Investment Authority, Khazanah Nasional Berhad, and marquee investors Tencent, Willoughby Capital, Antara Capital, Franklin Templeton and Tiger Global.

Top sources in the company said that Flipkart aims to focus on strengthening its supply chain, hire more employees as well as build tech infrastructure to target the growing and highly competitive e-commerce market in India. As per recent Redseer estimates, the industry is set to clock $55 billion sales during 2021 and will grow at a CAGR of 25% to touch $800 billion market value.

"At Flipkart, we are committed to transforming the consumer internet ecosystem in India and providing consumers access and value. This investment by leading global investors reflects the promise of digital commerce in India and their belief in Flipkart's capabilities to maximise this potential for all stakeholders. As we serve our consumers, we will focus on accelerating growth for millions of small and medium Indian businesses, including kiranas. We will continue to invest in new categories and leverage made-in-India technology to transform consumer experiences and develop a world-class supply chain," said Kalyan Krishnamurthy , CEO, Flipkart.

The e-tailer is also aiming to capture the informal retail sector of India, which still has over 90% presence in the overall industry and commands $1 trillion annual sales.

Fashion and grocery, as per the company statement, will continue to be the focus areas where the company has already made investments/ acquisitions in recent years. Flipkart's subsidiary payments firm PhonePe, which spun out as a separate entity last year, has beaten its nearest rivals GooglePay, Amazon Pay and Paytm in clocking nearly 50% of the United Payments Interface(UPI) market share.

Flipkart , according to research firm Forrester, has been able to outdo its biggest rival, Amazon when it comes to sales in key verticals like electronics, mobile phones and fashion.

Paytm gets approval for ₹12k-cr issue

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

PAYTM'S shareholders have given approval to ₹12,000-crore fresh issue of shares for listing on domestic stock exchanges, which, as per sources privy to the matter, is slated to happen by November this year.

However, China's Ali Baba and Ant Financial groups which own a combined 37% shareholding in the financial services company are most likely to participate in a secondary shares sale ahead of the IPO bidding. The move will reduce their stakes below 25% in order to be classified as a professionally managed company under the Securities Exchange Board of India (SEBI) regulations.

Another key investor Softbank is also likely to sell its shares during the forthcoming IPO along with Alibaba and Ant group. The total issue size including the offer for sale by the existing shareholders is estimated to be worth ₹16,600 crore, second largest IPO in India's domestic markets history after Coal India. Paytm is seeking the funds from institutional/ retail investors at $ 25-30 billion valuation, almost double of its current $16 billion valuation.

At the extraordinary general meeting held on Monday, Paytm's shareholders have also approved of CEO Vijay Shekhar Sharma 's de-classification as the promoter of the company since he owns less than 20% stake. Sharma, however, will continue to be Chairman and Managing Director of the company.One97 Communication, which is the parent entity of Paytm had stated in an earlier Registrar of Companies filing that there was a board rejig in the company with Alibaba's Senior Vice-President Douglas Lehman Feagin having joined the firm. In addition, two independent board of directors have also been appointed before the IPO.

However, Paytm's President Amit Nayyar, who was heading its stock broking, insurance distribution vertical Paytm Money, has quit the firm along with other top executives.

Investors bullish on realty stock; index surges 3.6% to hit 10-year high

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

EVEN as benchmark equity indices — Nifty50 and Sensex — shed over 1% during the last five trading session, BSE Realty Index advanced 6% in the same period. On Monday, when Sensex fell 13 points to 52,372.69, the Reality Index surged 3.6% and touched a fresh 10 year high of 3040.82 points.

Among individual stocks, Indiabulls Real Estate surged over 15% on Monday to close at ₹138.35, while the Bengaluru-based Puravankara gained 13.96% to close ₹108.95.

Macrotech Developers hit a new high of ₹814.90, up 6% in the intra-day trade on Monday. Macrotech's stock has soared over 20% in three trading days after the company reported presales growth of 88% year-on-year at ₹957 crore in Q1FY22.

DLF, Godrej Properties, Oberoi Realty, Phoenix Mills, Prestige Estate, Sobha, Sunteck Realty and Mahindra Lifespace Developers surged anywhere between 2 to 7% on Monday.

Analysts say that the rise in property registrations post the second wave has made this sector a favourite among investors. Also, low interest rates, reduction in debt, and increased consolidation of organised players have improved the sector's outlook.

"For real estate companies, overall net debt levels have declined 10% YoY, driven by improving operating cash flows and equity infusion via QIP/asset sales...There still seems to be some more upside in real estate stocks due to latent demand, stable prices, need for bigger/ separate houses due to WFH and lack of other lucrative investment opportunities," said Deepak Jasani, Head of Retail Research, HDFC Securities.

He, however, cautioned investors to check their risk appetite before entering these stocks afresh as "these have moved up quite a bit and can see some correction before they rise again." At the current prices, Jasani prefers DLF, Kolte Patil, Oberoi Realty, Sobha, Phoenix mills and Mahindra Lifespace.

Yash Gupta, Equity Research Associate, Angel Broking, "We expect the real-estate sector to outperform and this may be a start of a new upcycle in the sector after consolidation in the last 10 years."

Ola Electric raises $100 million debt from Bank of Baroda

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

OLA Electric, which is all set to launch its first electric scooter, said on Monday that it has raised $100 million in long-term debt from Bank of Baroda to close the first phase of development of its factory, where it plans to make electric two-wheelers.

This fundraising comes days after Ola, which is mainly into app-based taxi service, had announced raising $500 million from new investors — Singapore based Temsek holdings and an affiliate of global private equity firm Warburg Pincus — ahead of its public listing.

Ola Electric, which is valued at over $1 billion and backed by investors such as Matrix Partners, Tiger Global Management and SoftBank, had announced in last December that it will be investing ₹2,400 crore for setting up the Phase 1 of its Tamil Nadu factory, also called the Futurefactory.

"Today's agreement for long term debt financing between Ola and Bank of Baroda signals the confidence of the institutional lenders in our plans to build the world's largest two-wheeler factory in record time" said Bhavish Aggarwal, Chairman & Group CEO, Ola.

At full capacity, Ola's factory can make 10 million vehicles annually. The soon-to-be-launched Ola Scooter will be manufactured at the Ola Futurefactory, which will also serve as the global EV hub for Ola for its range of scooters and other two-wheelers, the company said.

The company executive had earlier said that the e-scooter was likely to be launched in July this year and the company would explore the option of exporting the vehicle to markets such as France, Italy and Germany. The e-scooter is likely to compete with Hero MotoCorp-backed Ather Energy, Bajaj Auto and others.

Rising input cost: Maruti hikes prices of Swift and all CNG models by ₹15,000

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

MARUTI Suzuki on Monday announced a price increase of up to ₹15,000 for its Swift model and all CNG variants owing to increase in various input costs. The company said that the price increase in other models is planned shortly and shall be intimated accordingly.

"Increase in ex-showroom prices (Delhi) is up to ₹15,000 on the above models. The new prices are effective from today i.e. 12th July, 2021,"' Maruti Suzuki said in an exchange filing.

The company in June had informed that it will increase the prices of its cars in the July-September quarter to pass on some impact of additional cost to customers.

This will be the third time in calendar year 2021 when Maruti Suzuki, which controls over 50% of domestic passenger vehicle (PV) market, is increasing prices of its vehicles. On April 16, the carmaker had gone for an average price increase of 1.6% on the ex-showroom prices across its models. Likewise, on January 18 it had increased prices of its models by up to ₹34,000. Both the times, increased input cost was the main reason for the hike.

Beside Maruti, other automakers such as Tata Motors, Honda Cars and Hero MotoCorp have announced a price hike for their models.

Dubai's Synergy Metals to acquire minority stake in JSW Cement

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

AS a precursor to its long-awaited initial public offering, JSW Cement has began to dilute minority equity stake in the company as a clutch of investors (private equity funds) have shown interest in the JSW group company.

Synergy Metals Investments Holding Limited is one such investor which is looking to acquire minority stake in JSW Cement, the unlisted subsidiary of JSW.

Synergy Metals Investments is a Dubai-based investment fund which is part of Synergy Metals and Mining Fund I LP (Synergy Fund). Synergy Fund invests in the industrials, metals and power sectors globally.

Synergy Metals has sought clearance from Competition Commission of India, the country's anti-trust regulator.

Though the size of the acquisition is not known yet, it is said that JSW Cement is looking to dilute its stake ahead of its initial public offer (IPO). Company sources told New Indian Express that JSW Cement is seeking to dilute $200 million worth of stakes and a clutch of investors, apart from Synergy Metals Investments, have shown interest in acquiring minority shareholding in the company. Another investor which has shown interest in the acquiring stakes in the company is Apollo Global Management.

A company source said that JSW Cement has been looking to get listed on the bourses for last five years, and it may happen by 2023. The company has been valued at a minimum of $2 billion.

JSW Cement was incorporated in 2006, and it is engaged in production, manufacturing and trading of cement, clinker, ground granulated blast-furnace slag, and related products.

It has manufacturing units at Vijayanagar in Karnataka, Nandyal in Andhra Pradesh, Salboni in West Bengal, Jajpur in Odisha and Dolvi in Maharashtra. It uses the slag from steel manufacturing units to produce Portland Slag Cement and Ground Granulated Blast Furnace Slag (GGBS). Together, the company has a total production capacity of 25 MTPA.

Adhiban, Iniyan start with wins in World Cup

Indian players B Adhiban and P Iniyan posted wins in the first of the two-game mini match at the FIDE World Cup in Sochi on Monday. Teen prodigy and Grandmaster R Praggnanandhaa opened the tournament with a victory. In the women's event, Padmini Rout started with a win over Ulviyya Fataliyeva (Azerbaijan). Bhakti Kulkarni advanced to round two after getting a walkover.

ROMAN EMPIRE

Goalkeeper Donnarumma's heroics in penalty shootout help Italy win second Euro title

ASSOCIATED PRESS @London

ITALIAN football's redemption story is complete. England's painful half-century wait for a major title goes on.

And it just had to be because of a penalty shootout.

Italy won the European Championship for the second time by beating England 3-2 on penalties on Sunday. The match finished 1-1 after extra time at Wembley Stadium, which was filled mostly with English fans hoping to celebrate the team's first international trophy since the 1966 World Cup.

"It's coming to Rome. It's coming to Rome," Italy defender Leonardo Bonucci shouted into a TV camera amid the celebrations, mocking the famous lyric "it's coming home" from the England team's anthem.

For England, it was utter dejection again — they know the feeling so well when it comes to penalties — after Gianluigi Donnarumma, Italy's imposing goalkeeper, dived to his left and saved the decisive spot kick by 19-year-old Bukayo Saka, one of the youngest players in England's squad.

That was England's third straight failure from the penalty spot in the shootout, with Marcus Rashford and Jadon Sancho — players brought on late in extra time seemingly as specialist penalty-takers — also missing.

As Saka and Sancho cried, Donnarumma was mobbed by his teammates.

BEAUTIFUL GAME SHOWS ITS UGLY SIDE

Political leaders and footballing chiefs in Britain expressed disgust on Monday at racial abuse targeting England stars — Marcus Rashford, Jadon Sancho and Bukayo Saka — who missed penalties against Italy. England coach Gareth Southgate said the online invective was "unforgivable".

SOUTHGATE RELUCTANT TO EXTEND STAY BEYOND WC

Gareth Southgate has hinted at reluctance to extend his contract beyond the Qatar World Cup, saying he does not want to overstay his welcome after England's heartbreaking defeat on penalties against Italy. Southgate is under contract until the World Cup.

QUESTIONS OVER ENGLAND'S 2030 WORLD CUP BID

England football chiefs and police on Monday faced questions over the chaotic and violent scenes around Wembley Stadium, with concerns it could affect the country's 2030 World Cup bid. Police have launched a probe to find the fans who broke protocols.

ITALY WON 3-2 IN THE SHOOTOUT

ITALY FINISH THE JOB

At the end of what was a nerve-racking penalty shootout win, Italy's unflappable centre-back Leonardo Bonucci could be seen telling the cameras, 'It's going to Rome'. Having beaten England in the final to become European champions, Italy managed to silence the crescendo that had built up over the last week in England of the trophy coming home. And it felt like the renaissance of a footballing powerhouse that had seen its lowest point when they failed to even qualify for the 2018 World Cup. All that is history now as Roberto Mancini has transformed the team into a unit that is on a 34-match unbeaten streak. Here's a look at how Italy went about dismantling one opponent after another on the way to the title

A DIFFERENT ITALY

If Brazil gave the world Jogo Bonito, the Italians were the exponents of 'Catenaccio' – which fundamentally focuses on defending. When Mancini took over, he tore up that blueprint. This was evident in the way Italy played a more attacking brand of football at the Euros and largely outplayed a majority of their opponents. The final was a case in point. Despite falling behind early on, Italy enjoyed over 60% possession and had six shots on target compared to England's one.

NOT FORGETTING TO DEFEND

While this Italian side is more expressive, they haven't forgotten the art of defending. The centre-back pairing of Bonucci and Giorgio Chiellini were rock solid at the back when the going got tough. Goalkeeper Gianluigi Donnarumma was stunning throughout the tournament and the fact that he is the first goalkeeper to win the player of the tournament award at the Euros tells the story. When Italy were tested by Spain in the semifinal, who were the only team to outplay them, the defence stood tall.

CLARITY OF THOUGHT

One of the biggest talking points after the final was why a 19-year-old Bukayo Saka was made to take the decisive penalty for England. Despite having experienced Jack Grealish, Raheem Sterling and Luke Shaw, Southgate chose to put the expectations of an entire country on Saka. On the other hand, Italy kept things simple in the shootout and stuck to their tried and tested formula.

MANCINI MAGIC

Lot of credit goes to veteran coach who transformed the side. From giving a few minutes of playing time to second choice goalkeeper Salvatore Sirigu in what was a demonstration of the team spirit he has developed to instilling an invincible mentality. It is as much Mancini's win as it is Italy's. Under him, the World Cup next year is within reach.

Going to be my last chance for Olympic medal, says Sreejesh

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Chennai

PR Sreejesh knows a thing or two about the Olympics and the weight of expectations placed on the current team to reclaim former glories. In less than a week from today, he will be on a flight to Tokyo for his third Games. Excerpts from an interview:

How has the last year been?
The last one and a half years were like a new learning for us, all of us. Quarantined, lockdowns and not able to do anything... I didn't play any major international events, so that was really tough. But when you think about the positive side... I think it helped us to bond really well, because we were under the same roof.

Before every big event, you have had the advantage of playing a biggish event. That wasn't possible this year. Is that an advantage or a disadvantage?
Every tournament has its own advantages and disadvantages. If you are going to play in some major tournament, that is going to reveal all your positives and negatives to the opponent. In that aspect, it's a positive because you are not exposing yourself in front of others. The Euro-Hockey Nations Championships just finished and it acted as an eye-opener because we could analyse the teams that played there, what they are doing, both good and bad. That's another advantage. But there is a definite disadvantage (for us) as well. We haven't played in any intense matches with opponents. To try and rectify that, we have been sort of replicating the Olympic tournament in training, playing six games (it also served as selection trials to pick the 16-man squad).

You have most medals in your trophy cabinet. Hopeful of adding the Olympic one to your collection?
When I wear my jersey, I always feel like this is an opportunity to win a medal. The Olympics is a platform where you cannot regret... when the tournament ends you should not regret it. Last time in Rio we almost reached there, one or two small mistakes cost us the medal. This time I am going to Tokyo thinking as if this is going to be my last chance to win a medal. Another three years... nobody knows what is going to happen.

BFC sign Sarthak on two-year deal

BENGALURU: Bengaluru FC have signed young Indian defender Sarthak Golui on a two-year deal, the Blues announced on Monday. The 23-year-old becomes the Blues' fourth signing of the summer, after Yrondu Musavu-King, Alan Costa and Rohit Kumar. He rose through the ranks with the AIFF Elite Academy, and has represented clubs in the I-League and the Indian Super League.

HAL FC in semis after Goans fail to turn up

BENGALURU: Goans FC did not turn up for their BDFA B Division clash against HAL FC at the Bangalore Football Stadium on Monday. As a result, HAL got walkover and also reached the semifinal with 18 points. The BDFA has decided to take strict action against the club, which did not turn up. In the A division, RWF FC and Parikram FC were involved in a 2-2 draw while BUFC defeated Postal Dept 2-0 in other game.

Breather for Anshu

FIROZ MIRZA @ Chennai

OLYMPIC-BOUND wrestler Anshu Malik (57kg) and coach Kuldeep Malik returned to the country from Estonia on Monday morning. The duo will spend a couple of days at their respective homes before joining a camp planned for women wrestlers heading to Tokyo. The camp, which will also see the participation of other qualified wrestlers — Seema Bisla (50kg) and Sonam Malik (62kg) — apart from a few sparring partners, will be held at SAI centre in Sonepat.

"She (Anshu) reached home today (Monday) and attended a training session at the Nidani Sports School in the evening," Dharamveer Malik, Anshu's father, told this daily.

The 19-year-old had an option to fly directly to Tokyo from her training base but she decided to meet her parents before leaving for her maiden Games.

"There's no time left, so no compromise with training. After this brief stay at home which will be under restrictions, she will have a camp at Sonepat before flying out for Tokyo along with other wrestlers and support staff," Malik added.

Thakur takes stock of India's Tokyo prep

PTI @ New Delhi

SPORTS minister Anurag Thakur on Monday chaired the first review meeting after taking charge of his ministry as he took stock of India's preparation for Tokyo Olympics. The meeting of the high-level committee was also attended by his deputy Nisith Pramanik and the officials of the sports ministry, Sports Authority of India (SAI) and Indian Olympic Association (IOA).

While it was the seventh meeting of the committee, it was the first for Thakur and Pramanik after taking charge of the sports ministry. Thakur took charge from Kiren Rijiju last week following a cabinet reshuffle. Pramanik, a first-time MP from Bengal, was appointed as the Minister of State for Youth Affairs and Sports under Thakur. During the meeting, various issues, including the provision of world class training facilities for the Olympic-bound athletes were discussed.

UN's generational catastrophe fear from shut schools

UNICEF and UNESCO issued alert, say they ought to be the last to shut, the first to open

EDUCATION

PARIS: Schools remain shut in 19 countries due to the pandemic, affecting 156 million children in what risks being "a generational catastrophe," the heads of two UN agencies warned Monday. The statement from the leaders of UNICEF and UNESCO, responsible for children's issues and education, said "governments have too often shut down schools and kept them closed for prolonged periods, even when the epidemiological situation didn't warrant it."

They advised that "schools should be the last to close and the first to reopen," with the effects of closures ranging from lower educational achievement to mental health problems and increased malnutrition.

"We urge decision-makers and governments to prioritise the safe reopening of schools to avoid a generational catastrophe," UNICEF leader Henrietta Fore and UNESCO chief Audrey Azoulay wrote.

"Closing schools mortgages our future for unclear benefits to our present. We must prioritise better. We can re-open schools safely, and we must," they added.

United Nations Secretary-General Antonio Guterres had last year said the world was already in a "learning crisis" before the pandemic, with 250 million children worldwide out of school.

"Now we face a generational catastrophe that could waste untold human potential, undermine decades of progress, and exacerbate entrenched inequalities," he had warned the world leaders.

Guterres said getting students back in classrooms "must be a top priority" once the COVID-19 outbreak has been brought under control. He also called for greater investment in education, with low- and middle-income countries facing an annual funding gap of $1.5 trillion prior to the pandemic, including investments in "digital literacy and infrastructure."

The U.N. chief also said education initiatives must be geared towards those at greatest risk of being left behind.

Meanwhile, more than 10 million people were placed under fresh Covid-19 restrictions and a curfew in the Thai capital Monday, as the kingdom battled a surge of cases worsened by the highly infectious Alpha and Delta variants.

Thailand has so far recorded more than 345,000 cases and 2,791 deaths -- with the bulk of them coming in this latest wave that started in April.

First detected in clubs frequented by the Thai elite and politicians at an upscale Bangkok nightlife district, the surge has been exacerbated by a slow vaccine rollout and limited testing capacity. Health authorities also said they are monitoring seven people who have contracted both the Alpha and Delta variants. In addition to the capital city, nine other provinces that have seen steady upticks in infections saw more restrictions bite.

LEADING LUMINARY

LOUIS ROSSMAN

An American independent repair technician, YouTube personality, and right to repair activist. He rose to prominence with his channel, shedding light on monopolistic tendencies of companies when it came to repairing gadgets

2007 Establishes Rossmann Repair Group in New York City

2012 Starts a therapy YouTube channel, showing his repairs

2013 The Repair Association is founded

2015 Rossman begins right to repair advocacy

2015-2020 Lobbies for repair-friendly legislations across the US

2021 Starts fundraiser to get a legislation passed; collects $700,000 of $6mn goal

RIGHT TO REPAIR

If your equipment like a phone, a car or a computer gets damaged, you should be able to fix it without having to go to the seller. The idea is to break the monopoly created by the manufacturer and the seller by directing customers back to them when devices have problems

WHAT THEY WANT

03 MAIN DEMANDS

1. Repair information, including manuals or guides which can help
2. Products that can be repaired
3. Parts that can be used to repair the products

THE WAY FORWARD

On July 9, US President Joe Biden passed an executive order, covering 72 sectors to promote competition. One of the domains covered is right to repair, prodding companies like Apple, Microsoft and Tesla to make available to everyone their repair manuals, tools and components, as well as proprietary software code that allows components to function

EXFILE • TECH

Overhauling repair laws

If your bike breaks down in the middle of the road, you first instinct is to roll it to the nearest roadside repair shop and not to the official service station, right? But do you know you don't have the right to let the roadside guy take a look at the problem? Time to check out the right to repair movement trending across the world

WHY ARE COMPANIES OPPOSING IT

If right to repair becomes a norm, companies stand to lose on many counts

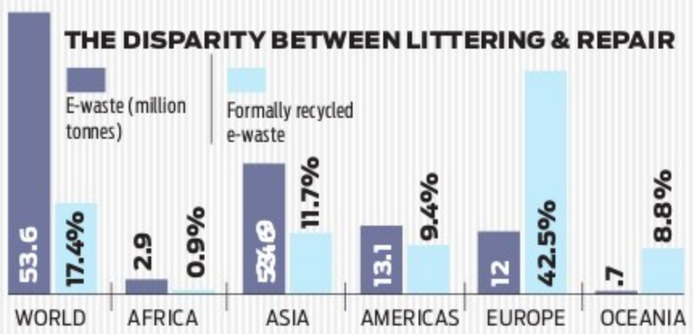
- They won't be able to create products that become outdated over time (planned obsolescence)
- Cannot force updates on models to make them slow and unusable, Cannot write off obsolete models, like Apple does on most of its products
- Cannot force customers to upgrade, Cannot restrict customers to their service centres
- Will have to design products that can be repaired. Won't be able to refuse warranty benefits. Can't dictate the price of repair

WHAT IS IT GOOD

With replacements exceeding repairs, the quantum of e-waste is on the rise. But right to repair can address a host of economic, environmental and social issues

125-KM	12.9 MN	18 MN	7-20%	10L TONNES
Length of an imaginary line if e-waste generated globally last year is placed end to end	Women in the highly-risky informal waste sector	Kids, adolescents in the informal sector, of which waste processing is a sub-sector	e-waste rich nations dump in low- and middle-income countries	e-waste generated in India in 2019-20

THE DISPARITY BETWEEN LITTERING & REPAIR



RIGHT TO REPAIR LAWS ACROSS THE GLOBE

- The laws in EU and US are currently restricted to appliances and vehicles, but will soon include smartphones, tablets and laptops.
- The Productivity Commission of Australia is mulling a copyright law that prevents unauthorised repair and the subsequent loss of warranty

John Deere's stand-off with US agriculturists

Major issue cropped up in 2017 after farm equipment maker John Deere required farmers to sign a license agreement that forbade them from repairing equipment without a John Deere technician. Farmers found a workaround by reprogramming their machines to run on bootlegged firmware, leading to a stand-off. While farmers found support from Right to Repair activists, John Deere joined the ranks of Apple, Verizon and other majors denying owners the right to repair their machines

Apple Store quotes $1,200 for a free fix

On October 8, 2018, CBC News ran an investigative piece on Apple's business practices surrounding repair of their devices. They went undercover in an Apple store with a malfunctioning MacBook Pro looking for a quote on repair. The Apple store quoted $1,200 for a logic board replacement due to liquid damage. When taken to Rossmann's repair shop, Rossmann explained there was no liquid damage. He fixed it and charged the undercover journalists a princely sum of $0

Massachusetts Bill that set the ball rolling

In 2012, Massachusetts became the first US state to take action preserving the right to repair when it passed the Act Protecting Motor Vehicle Owners and Small Businesses in Repairing Motor Vehicles. The bill was drafted to cover automotive repairs. However, it is written in much the same way as the Right to Repair bills. It required auto makers to provide or sell to independent repair shops and owners the same repair information, including technical updates, as was made available to dealers

Half a million going to the bed hungry

COVID & CLIMATE

PARIS: Several countries are already afflicted or threatened by famine, whether due to war, climate change or Covid-19, as the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) warns against worsening hunger around the world. The NGO Oxfam on Friday estimated over half a million people are living in "famine-like conditions" around the world, six times more than the previous year.

Eating locusts in Madagascar

The famine ravaging Madagascar, the first country to experience such conditions due to climate change, is forcing people to eat locusts, cactus fruits, leaves and even mud, World Food Programme executive director David Beasley said in late June. The UN warned a month earlier that more than a million people in the south were facing "acute food insecurity".

War in Yemen

Yemen, at war since Huthi rebels took the capital Sanaa in 2014, is faced with the worst humanitarian crisis in the world. Around 50,000 people there are famine-stricken, while five million people are on the brink of famine, according to the WFP.

Famine in Ethiopia

Over 400,000 people have "crossed the threshold into famine" in Ethiopia's war-torn Tigray, a senior UN official said in early July. Another 1.8 million people are on the brink of famine in the eight-month long conflict. The European Commissioner in charge of crisis management, J Lenarcic, has accused Ethiopia of using famine as a weapon of war.

South Sudan's civil war

A famine is ravaging certain areas of South Sudan's state of Jonglei, according to UN agencies. Some 7.2 million people are expected to suffer a food crisis with malnutrition or minimum nutrition between April and July in the country, which has been gripped by civil war.

Other countries under threat

The WFP says that 41 million people are on the brink of famine in 43 countries, including Afghanistan, the Central African Republic, the Democratic Republic of Congo, Ethiopia, Haiti, Honduras, South Sudan, Sudan, Uganda, Venezuela, Yemen and Zimbabwe.

FACT OF THE MATTER

FREE FISH HAVE LARGER BRAINS

NATURE

The brains of fish grow bigger when they have to think harder, then shrink back down when they can chill out, according to new research out of Canada. Frederic Laberge, an integrative biologist at the University of Guelph in Canada, focused on brain size in fish. In a study posted on the preprint server BioRXiv, LaBerge's team compared the brain sizes of rainbow trout living in a fish farm to those who had slipped out and were living wild. After seven months, the brains of the wild trout were 15% heavier than the captive trout. The growth spurt was limited to their gray matter, LaBerge said. His theory is that more complex living environments force fish to literally increase their brain power.

Diamond within a diamond

EXPLORE

An unusual diamond with another diamond trapped inside has been discovered in Russia, and may be over 800 million years old. The diamond has the dubbed the Matryoshka diamond, thanks to its resemblance to the traditional Russian Matryoshka dolls - a set of wooden dolls of decreasing size placed one inside another. Experts are still unclear on how the strange gem formed, but believe this is the first of its kind in the history of global diamond mining. Oleg Kovalchuk, Deputy Director for innovations at ALROSA's Research and Development Geological Enterprise, said: 'As far as we know, there were no such diamonds in the history of global diamond mining yet. It remains unclear how much the unusual diamond could be worth.

Mumbai bomb blast

Mumbai was struck by three powerful bomb blasts in the evening of July 13, 2011 that killed at least 21 people and injured dozens more

THE TARGET

The three targets of the attack were the Zaveri Bazaar, the Opera House business district and suburban Dadar. Many businessmen from the city's thriving jewellery trade were injured

SERIES OF INCIDENTS

The blasts happened in a span of 20 minutes. All the bombs were placed in two- or four-wheelers in the busiest spot of the chosen areas

UNDETONATED BOMB

All mobile networks were jammed in the areas where the blast took place. A fourth bomb explosive device was also found, but it did not detonate

'FARE' deal

Exotic fruits, spices, masalas are now available at the tap of a finger with Bengalureans procuring these on WhatsApp, which has turned into a virtual marketplace

SIMRAN AHUJA

MANGOSTEEN, South African pears or grapefruits, Spanish plums. You don't have to travel to different parts of the world to get your these exotic fruits. All these fruits are now available to you at the tap of your finger. Take, for instance, Sapna Lulla Jadhwani's WhatsApp group 'Fruity Flavours & More', where people get regular updates about the new offerings in stock, along with pictures and price details. "The idea came to me during the lockdown, where markets were allowed to be open but with restrictions," says Jadhwani, whose group now has over 100 members.

While WhatsApp has helped us stay in touch in a global pandemic, the platform is now doubling as a virtual marketplace. While group chats are notorious for being filled with spam, groups like Jadhwani's ensures that only admins can send messages and those interested can reach out privately. "I buy the fruits in bulk from either a farmer or vendor and this helps me keep the cost less when I sell it in smaller batches. This draws in more customers and the demand helps the people I buy the fruits from as well," she explains. For example, South African mandarins at a supermarket would cost about ₹400/kg but through her, customers can get it for ₹285 instead.

Sagar A Kataria

When Sagar A Kataria first started using Instagram and WhatsApp to sell fruits, he was apprehensive of the response. But now, the entrepreneur and chef at Agni Sagar is now planning to set up a shop to do the same. While regular seasonal fare like litchis and cherries have been star fruits at the moment, the response towards the more exotic fruits like mangosteen or South African pears and grapefruits has also taken him by surprise. "If I were to compare the response between pomegranates or mangosteens, the latter always draws in more people," says Kataria, who in the past 3-4 days has sold over 35 kg of mangosteens. Customers are all over the city, including Hebbal, Shanti Nagar and beyond Electronics City.

South African Pears

American Globe Grapes

Sapna Lulla Jadhwani

For customers, there's nothing like the touch-and-feel experience a real market provides. But over WhatsApp, queries and complaints see a faster response. Hema Chhabria, who has been buying fruits often from Jadhwani, says unlike big corporates, the connection is more personal here. "There's the one-on-one factor here. If I order through a supermarket chain store, I'll have to make multiple calls and wait for a refund. Here, if the fruit turns out bad, I can reach out immediately," she says.

It's not just fruits that are popular on WhatsApp. Some are also using the platform to sell homemade masalas and spices, while others are promoting multigrain and jowar flours instead.

For Sangeeta Rathi, being able to start a business helped beat lockdown blues and WhatsApp helped facilitate the same. The owner of The Spice Rack says, "I didn't have the contact base before but now I can send a broadcast message about my products to 350 people," she says.

STYLE QUOTIENT

Printed shirts, lounge wear, baggy fits...These are now trending among men in Bengaluru

SANATH PRASAD

MORNING rushes once included finding the right outfit for the day at the office. The pandemic has changed much, including our dressing sense. Men's fashion, in particular, took a sharp turn, moving away from the once popular formal wear. Comfortable, multi-purpose wear which is stylish is now trending among Bengalureans.

Fashion designers observe that the work-from-home culture has created a demand for casual and resort wear which stir emotions of adventure.

Mayank Modi, who runs fashion label Mayank Modi Fashion, believes that customers now are very cautious about what they buy. "Men are now going in for outfits that fit their day-to-day needs. Work-from-home outfits are most sought-after as they are versatile. It includes light-coloured pyjamas which come in different cuts, along with printed shirts which can also be used as outdoor wear. A lot of people are now indulging in revenge travel or revenge shopping. This is prompting them to purchase sporty wear," says Modi.

Dipayan Debbarma, founder of Ddebbarma, which specialises in resort wear, says "More and more people want to travel and take a break from work, especially after the lockdown. With formal outfits temporarily taking a backseat, men now prefer beach wear. The choice for travel collections is gaining pace and we received over 10-15 orders last week," says Debbarma, who also mentions that clients have now revised their budgets. "We find that some are cutting down expenses on clothes, owing to the pandemic," adds Debbarma.

However, Prashant Priyadarshi, founder of Destello, a Bengaluru-based clothing brand, begs to differ. He finds that the men's fashion business is seeing a "post pandemic boom". "Men are definitely seeking more comfort now, both in terms of design and fit. Lounge wear and baggy fits are trending at the moment. The whole concept of work from home has changed how men dress. Prints are trending too. I assumed that the pandemic might affect the printed shirt market but it is actually doing pretty well. In terms of colours, muted, pastel and dark tones are doing better," says Priyadarshi.

Not to forget designer masks are an integral part of any outfit. Sounak Sen Barat, design director and founder of House of Three, a designer label in Bengaluru, says their collection of coordinated shirts, pants, and masks are currently available as this trend is bound to stay for the next couple of years. "We also have non-woven masks that fit the aesthetic and medical needs of men's new-age fashion trends," says Barat.

FIT BIT

PARIVRTTA PRASARITA PADOTTANASANA

(REVOLVED WIDE-LEGGED FORWARD BEND POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'parivrtta' means revolved, 'prasarita' means spread out, 'pada' means foot, 'ut' (ot) means intense, 'tan' means to stretch, and 'asana' means pose. It is believed to relieve tension, and calm the mind. It opens and balances Vishuddha (throat) chakra, associated with authentic expression and higher communication, Svadhisthana (sacral) chakra, the centre of creativity and sexuality, and Muladhara (root) chakra, which creates a sense of grounding, stability and security.

STEPS

- Stand and place hands on the hips.
- Spread your legs about 3-4 feet apart.
- Inhale, expand the chest, raise the neck.
- Exhale and slowly bend forward along the hips. Keep going forward till your hands touch the floor.
- Balance yourself on both hands for a moment. In this position, the knees should not be bent to get maximum stretch of the hamstrings and calf muscles. But if you find it difficult, you may bend the knees a little.
- Take your left hand towards the ceiling, with palm straight and pointing upwards.
- Turn the head and gaze upwards, towards the left palm.
- Maintain this position for as long as you are comfortable.
- To release the pose, bring down the left hand to the floor and slowly come up to the standing pose with hands on the hips. Bring the two legs together and rest.
- Repeat on the other side also, with the right hand facing upwards.

BENEFITS

- Stretches and strengthens the hamstrings, thighs and calf muscles.
- Strengthens the muscles of the upper body and shoulders.
- Improves digestion by toning the organs in the abdomen.
- Helps release stress in the shoulders and neck muscles.
- Gives a good relaxation to the body and mind.
- Also helps relieve mild depression.
- Gives a good sense of physical balance.

LIMITATIONS

- Those who have any injury to the knees, hips, shoulders, neck, ribs and back muscles, should avoid.
- People who have had any recent surgery of neck, shoulders, abdomen or legs should avoid this asana.

THE AGE OF MAKEOVERS

AS Gregor Samsa awoke one morning from uneasy dreams he found himself transformed in his bed into a gigantic insect." – Franz Kafka, The Metamorphosis

Anyone familiar with literature is bound to have come across the famed opening lines of Kafka's existentialist novella. Pronounced as the greatest novel of the 20th century by Vladimir Nabokov, the narrative is all about the transformation of the protagonist into an insect and the subsequent isolation and changes that it brings about.

Transformations, radical changes have always fascinated human beings. They have always been part of our folk tales, ballads, epics, movies and television content. Right from a demon transforming into a demure lady or a bird to trick the good heroine or the hero in our folklore, we have been charmed by the Avengers changing into armour-clad superheroes within a few seconds. So when people could take an active part of media globalisation through various platforms that were also highly visual in nature, they were bound to bring this element into their content.

A friend of mine whom I have known for decades was always on the heavier side when it came to looks. He never really bothered about it until he became a borderline diabetic. Warned by his doctor, he decided to go on a weight-loss mission. For a whole year, he slogged at his gym and recorded his regimen meticulously. Once he reached the target, he promptly posted a video. While his earlier posts earned just a handful of likes and comments, this before/after video garnered more than a thousand likes and hundreds of comments.

Social media posts on various kinds of transformation have been a rage for a while now. You can see men and women in ordinary clothes suddenly turning into fashion icons, flaunting luxury brands or a woman with frizzy hair and crumpled clothing looking ten years younger after consulting a celebrity stylist. From yoga-loving, adventure-sporting, travel-oriented people to DIY celebrities to commercial firms like Good Housekeeping pushing people to change the look of their homes, transformation can be easily identified as the buzzword for the attention-craving Gen-Z today.

This drift covers almost everything. A recent challenge to showcase people before and after puberty hit them is still trending, while there is another trend wherein kids reveal 'hotter' pictures of their parents in their twenties contrasted with their present versions. There are parents who put together videos of their children or pets emerging into adulthood as attractive beings. While transformation has been espoused as a means of earning collective approval, it is also a way of paying tribute. There are people who like to imitate their icons by dressing up or dancing like them.

Of all these, there is also a growing preference for posts showcasing social transformations. These are stories of regular people or incidents wherein major obstacles such as exclusion, gender bias or class divide were overcome.

While satisfying people's craving for a little bit of drama and fun, the transformation trend reflects the current mind-set and is here to stay.

BACK ON CAMPUS

While the jury is still out on whether colleges should reopen, students from Bengaluru share the concerns and conflicted emotions they feel about this

ANIKA GOMEZ

WITH reports speculating the reopening of colleges in Karnataka, students await the news with bated breath. After spending the better part of their college lives stuck at home, many look forward to returning to campus. "As much as I loved staying at home and doing nothing I'd still like to see how it would be like to go back to college now," says Vishakh Salian from The Oxford College of Science. When asked about the disappointment he felt on missing out on the 'college experience', he says, "There are a few things I may have missed but I can always get it back. I'm sure the final-year students have missed out on a lot."

Although the predominant feeling surrounding the return to campus may be excitement, students also have conflicted emotions. "I'm excited about meeting my friends but I have forgotten how to study because of online classes. I don't know if I'll get through my third year with good marks," says Johann Roy, a second-year BCom student from Christ University.

This seems to be the situation for others too. Another student from Christ University, Kruthi Ravikumar, says, "The transition from offline classes to online didn't impact me in the beginning. But then, I found myself struggling to pay attention to a screen for long hours, which eventually affected my study habits. It will take getting used to."

Though the need-of-the-hour, online classes do not compare to the in-class experience, say students. Alexander Aruldoss, an information science student from Jain University, says, "I didn't gain any knowledge about the subject and didn't understand most of the topics that were taught in class."

It's also impossible to ignore the elephant in the room when it comes to reopening campuses. "It is quite unlikely that safety measures are going to be taken seriously. I would feel uncomfortable going to campus knowing that there's a chance that I can fall sick and spread it to others as well," says Reuben Lobo, from St. Joseph's College of Commerce.

Some students also have to worry about taking offline exams. Ambika Rao from PES University says, "Many of us have been affected by Covid, and are recuperating or are unable to take the vaccine. It is hard to focus on attending classes or exams at such a time."

While concerns are many, the yearning for some semblance of normalcy is universal. "It will be a pleasant experience if we can social distance, wear masks and follow protocol," says Rao.

Making it in the music industry

(The authors run SaPa - the Subramaniam Academy of Performing Arts)

OFTEN the biggest argument against pursuing one's passions as a career is, "You can't earn a living through that." Some people feel that the world is divided into "safe" career options (engineer/doctor/investment banker/lawyer) and "oh-no-don't-do-that" (everything creative falls here). However, as the world changes, career options change as well, and the truth is no one really knows what the job market will look like a few years from now, and captains of industry have been saying for years that college graduates aren't adequately trained for industry jobs and need to be reskilled.

In this environment, more than ever, it makes sense to be open to looking for careers in areas you are passionate about, and seeing how you can earn a sustainable livelihood from them.

Here are the top picks in the music industry:

■ PERFORMER: This is the most obvious one. Being a performer isn't new, but there are so many new and different ways to present performances.

■EDUCATOR: Being a music educator is an extremely rewarding and stable profession. Being a music educator not only allows you to hone your craft, but also helps you inspire many musicians in training, and brings joy.

■SONGWRITER/COMPOSER: Songwriters and composers will always be in demand. Whether you write lyrics or melodies or both, it's a great career option.

■ PRODUCER/ARRANGER: Producers and arrangers bring melodies and lyrics to life and create the tracks that musicians can perform on. Producers are becoming more and more important with the way contemporary music is currently being made. Many artistes now start with production, and write songs on top of production elements.

■CREATOR/INFLUENCER: In this social media world, multidisciplinary skills help you create a presence online as a creator or influencer, showcasing and sharing your art. Most social media platforms are also rolling out features to help creators monetise.

■SOUND ENGINEER: In both the live and the studio setting, sound or audio engineers are critical to the quality of the final musical output.

■ARTISTE MANAGEMENT: Managing and promoting artists in this continually changing landscape is another great career option.

■MUSIC BUSINESS: Companies that deal with artistes, such as record labels, social media platforms, streaming platforms and others are a great place for musicians themselves to work, contribute and build their skill sets.

■ EVENT MANAGEMENT: Whether online or in person, event managers are necessary for smooth and successful running of concerts.

■PR/JOURNALIST: Many publications have journalists specialised towards music and the arts, and it is also a focus for some PR firms.

Here are some options that could make sense for you. If you are looking for a career in the music industry, a skillset that is a combination of any of many of the above will hold you in good stead.

BONDING OVER SHARED TRAUMA

(The author is a counsellor with Inner Sight)

IN the aftermath of the Covid second wave, a scriptwriter friend was talking about wanting to register prospective movie ideas such as Corona: A Love Story, or Viral Love with plots of how in the heart of the pandemic, people find each other and start relationships. "The story begins like this," my friend said, "In a medical college hospital, senior residents are showing freshers how things work and who is who, and a couple of general college fun episodes later, the first Covid cases start coming and soon, it is hell itself. It is all hands on deck and everyone is working themselves to their bone, and guess what happens next?"

"A song and dance sequence like the Rasputin number that the Thrissur medical college students did?" I replied drily, at which the script writer part of the friend sparked up as if taking a mental note, and then continued, "Well, sure, that will be nice. The senior and junior residents are working endlessly for months together. We throw in some flashback stories about their backgrounds, maybe one is a poor farmer's child wanting to serve-the-people and the other got a paid seat and is trying to please a parent they were never close to, and then these two people fall in love. Then, maybe both fall prey to the virus themselves, and there is a tragic ending. We will end with the survivor now walking into a virology institute as a senior researcher trying to discover a vaccine. It will be a super-hit film, don't you think?"

Such a film, if it ever gets made, might well become a super hit but whether relationships born from a shared trauma will be super-hit and last forever is questionable.

Shared trauma where people who are traumatised in similar ways by an event they go through, may often bond through it, even get enmeshed with each other romantically, sexually and otherwise. Being able to support each other feels wonderful, and can seem very much like love. Only, it really is not love in the way we would understand it. The shared experience and the feeling that this person really gets it can be very alluring, especially if others don't get it and react far less emotionally than you do. It is very easy to mistake mutual trauma survivorship and support as love. Labelling this as love can be a mistake.

What can happen is that one person heals from the trauma faster or better than the others, and then, it feels like the clouds have parted and you can see clearly now. That there are no real common values, goals or interests and not needing support leaves the bond vulnerable. Then, the person still hurting might try to pull the other back into that trauma support bond, by creating situations that cause hurt and pain so you might seek to support each other. It can get messy, painful and traumatic in itself.

Let the scripts be for the movies. Our lives are different.

DRISHYA 2 GOES ON FLOORS

A still from Drishya 2

Directed by P Vasu, the Kannada sequel features Ravichandran in the lead and Anant Nag in a pivotal role

CE FEATURES

The shooting of the Kannada remake of Drishya 2 went on floors on Monday with the film's lead Ravichandran and Anant Nag joining the sets. The sequel is directed by P Vasu, who also helmed the first part of the suspense thriller.

The film, produced by Mukesh R Mehta and CV Sarathi's E4 Entertainment, was supposed to go on floors in May but got delayed due to the pandemic.

A few stills from the sets of the film features Ravichandran reprising the role of Mohanlal in the original Malayalam film, which turned out to be a huge hit.

The film also has Anant Nag in an important role. The veteran, who was not working for the past 15 months due to the lockdown, is finally donning the greasepaint for the film.

Malayalam original Drishyam 2 directed by Jeetu Joseph, received a tremendous response on the OTT platform and is being remade in Telugu and Hindi as well.

The Kannada remake has Seetharam GSV handling the camera and stars Navya Nair, Aarohi Narayan, Unnati, Asha Sharath, and Prabhu, who were all part of the first part. Pramod Shetty is the new one to join the cast of the duology.

Sanjana Anand exits Addhuri Lover due to call sheet issues

A SHARADHAA

Sanjana Anand, in her previous interview with CE, had mentioned that the lockdown had taken a toll on her career. The actor added that she is longing to begin shooting for AP Arjun's Addhuri Lover, which goes on floors on July 21. However, according to the latest development, the Salaga heroine has exited the project. The actor has confirmed her exit to CE.

She says, "Director AP Arjun has planned to juggle between his two projects – Addhuri Lover and Dhruva Sarja's yet-to-titled film. The schedule planned by the director is not working out with my other commitments. So, I decided it was best to opt-out of the film. It was a mutual decision. I discussed it with director AP Arjun before exiting the film.

The Chemistry of Kariyappa actor is now looking forward to the release of Salaga, Shokiwala, Window Seat, and a yet-to-be-titled project with director Shashank. Meanwhile, the actor is listening to many other scripts, and she is in the process of finalising a couple of them.

Shanvi Srivastava

The actor is taking a bit of boxing training for a fight sequence, which will be shot during the upcoming schedule

SHANVI TO RESUME WORK WITH BANG

CE FEATURES

Shanvi Srivastava is in Bengaluru today to complete her portions for the upcoming film Bang. The actor, who was not working for a long time due to the second wave, will resume her works with the film, which will begin shooting on July 16. The actor has arrived here in advance to brush up her boxing skills for a stunt sequence in the film. "Bang, directed by Sri Ganesh Parashuram, is a dark gangster movie. I have to shoot for a fight sequence, and I needed a few tips before I begin filming," says Shanvi, who will be shooting for four days in the current schedule.

Shanvi also has some pending patchwork in her Malayalam debut, Mahaveeryar, and will be joining the shoot soon. Meanwhile, the actor, who is yet to lock her next project, has taken some time off to read a few scripts. "Post lockdown, I have resumed work and have been going through some interesting stories. However, I have not signed up for any," says the Avane Srimannarayana heroine. Shanvi will next be seen in Kasturi Mahal. A film by director Dinesh Babu is now in the post-production stage.

Esha Deol to produce and star in Ek Duaa

CE FEATURES

Days after announcing her acting comeback in Rudra: The Edge of Darkness, Esha Deol has launched her film company, Bharat Esha Films (BEF).

Co-founded with husband Bharat Takhtani, BEF's first film, Ek Duaa, will release on Voot Select. The film is directed by Ramkamal Mukherjee and stars Esha in the lead.

Ek Duaa is produced by Venky's and Assorted Motion Pictures. Speaking about the film, Esha shares, "Over the past few years, I have been busy taking care of my two daughters, who are truly a blessing for me. I always wanted to come back to films, but I wanted to do it with something special. Now that they have grown up a bit and some very interesting projects are being offered to me, I thought it was the right time for me to face the camera once again."

"I wanted to do a film that not just entertains but also informs and inspires change. When I heard the concept of Ek Duaa, it truly touched me, and more so as a mother of two girls. So, I decided to extend my association with it as a producer rather than just being an actor," she added.

Esha recently came on board for Rudra: The Edge of Darkness. The upcoming series stars Ajay Devgn in the lead role. It will debut on Disney+ Hotstar.

F9 GETS AN INDIAN RELEASE DATE

CE FEATURES

The highly anticipated ninth installment of the Fast and Furious series, F9, is set to hit Indian screens on August 5. The film has already been released in some parts of the world, including the US, Canada, China, Russia, and Korea. Despite the mixed critical reception, the film has raked in over $500 million worldwide.

The franchise enjoys substantial fan-following in India and the announcement makes it one of the biggest films set to release after a dry spell at the box office. Directed by Justin Lin, the film saw the return of franchise regulars including Vin Diesel, Michelle Rodriguez, and Tyrese Gibson, as well as new additions such as John Cena and Michael Rooker. Helen Mirren, who was featured in the franchise's spin-off, Hobbs and Shaw, also appeared in F9.

Moreover, Vin Diesel recently confirmed that the tenth and final installment of the franchise will be released in parts, with filming set to commence in January next year.

Varun Dhawan

Varun Dhawan and Mohit Suri to collaborate?

CE FEATURES

Actor Varun Dhawan and director Mohit Suri may collaborate on an upcoming project. Mohit is presently shooting for his upcoming release, Ek Villain Returns. According to the report, the director has approached Varun for an action-oriented love story, which the actor has liked. Varun has asked Mohit to develop the idea further into a full bound script, a source told the portal. The film is being tipped to potentially start next year. Mohit will delve into the scripting process after finishing Ek Villain Returns, the source added.

Varun Dhawan recently wrapped up Amar Kaushik's Bhediya. The film is a horror-comedy co-starring Kriti Sanon. He's also expected to star in Raj Mehta's Jug Jugg Jeeyo.
